FBI Burglaries Of Embassies Bared

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI committed burglaries to steal intelligence information from inside the embassies of foreign nations during the Johnson, Kennedy and Eisenhower administrations, former FBI officials say.

Published documents indicate the break-ins were aimed at getting code books and other cryptographic information.

Two former high FBI officials estimated Thursday that fewer than 10 such break-ins took place each year. One source said they went on for 15 to 20 years before being stopped in 1966. Meanwhile the White House stuck to President Nixon's disputed assertion that FBI break-ins were authorized, widespread and well known during two Democratic administrations.

Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren, speaking in San Clemente, Calif., refused to add any details. Other White House officials indicate Nixon personally ordered them to keep quiet about the matter.

Despite that, one Nixon aide said FBI break-ins were made in civil rights cases during the Kennedy and Johnson years, as well as in national security cases. He gave no other information.

The former FBI officials said the embassy break-ins differed from the Ellsberg burglary because the codes sought in them were of obvious intelligence value. "According to FBI standards there is no way the Ellsberg job could be called a national security operation," one said.

It wasn't clear when the embassy break-ins began, or who first authorized them. Former Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell, who was boss of the Justice Department during Dwight D.

Eisenhower's administration refused to comment.

Former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark and Nicholas Katzenbach denied knowledge of any authorized FBI break-ins during the Lyndon B. Johnson administration. Two close aides to the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy said they are positive he wasn't told of any such break-ins during the administration of his brother, John F. Kennedy.

Clark, however, said he occasionally heard of unauthorized break-ins by FBI agents. He said these were freelance jobs, undertaken against the department's policy, and unrelated to national security.

He said the late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover did ask him several times, shortly after Clark took office in late 1966, for permission to burglarize a foreign mission in New York City to obtain information sought by another intelligence agency. Clark said he denied permission and didn't hear about such matters again.

Nixon's assertion about what took place in the Kennedy and Johnson years came at a news conference Wednesday in which he defended his short-lived approval of a 1970 intelligence plan that authorized burglaries against embassies and domestic radical groups such as the Black Panthers and Weathermen.

He said under Kennedy and Johnson "burglarizing of this type did take place...it was authorized on a very large scale...and it was quite well known."

Although wiretapping of foreign embassies has been an open secret for years, FBI break-ins at foreign embassies didn't surface publicly until recent disclosures related to the 1971 attempt by White House agents to steal Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatric records.

Jury Indicts Maryland Executive

BALTIMORE (AP) — Dale Anderson, a Democrat who succeeded Vice President Spiro T. Agnew as chief executive of Baltimore County, has been charged with extortion and bribery in a kickback scheme involving architects and engineers.

The indictment by a federal grand jury Thursday was the first in a far-reaching investigation of political corruption in Maryland. The grand jury, empaneled in December, is expected to begin probing soon allegations of similar illegal payments to Agnew. Agnew has branded as "damned lies" reports that he received such kickbacks.

And an hour after Anderson's indictment was announced Agnew responded he found the charges

"totally at variance with my impressions of him and everything I know about him."

"Despite our political differences, in all my associations with Mr. Anderson, both official and private, he has exhibited unusual candor and integrity," the vice president added.

The 56-year-old Anderson said he was innocent of accusations that he extorted $46,270 from eight firms doing business with the county.

Gov. Marvin Mandel, a Democrat who followed Agnew into the state house in Annapolis, said he wouldn't comment until Anderson "has had his day in court."

The boss of the sprawling Baltimore city-suburb and one of the most powerful Democrats in Maryland, Anderson was the sole defendant in the 39-count indictment. A former aide was named co-conspirator and four other men—two of them long-time Agnew associates—were cited as participants in the conspiracy that allegedly began in November 1966. At the time Agnew was the county's chief elected official.

U.S. Attorney George Beall, who heads the probe, said "further indictments can be expected."

He added that "the investigation of Mr. Anderson, other public officials and business entities and individuals in Baltimore County is continuing."

He did not elaborate. Anderson heard the news about the indictment on a radio in his office in nearby Powsow, the county seat. "I don't want to talk to anybody," he told newsmen as he left the building with his wife.

Last week at a news conference, after rumors circulated that he was to be indicted, Anderson flatly denied any illegal activities involving cash collected from firms doing design and architectural work on bridges, buildings and sanitation projects for the county.

He acknowledged then that many such contractors had made campaign contributions, and that William E. Fornoff, his chief administrative officer, had picked up such payments when he worked for Anderson and had passed the money to him. Fornoff was named as the co-conspirator in the indictment.

Two Injured By Letter Bomb In Great Britain

LONDON (AP) — A letter bomb exploded on the 22nd floor of the London Stock Exchange today, wounding the secretary-general of the exchange and his private secretary. They were the first casualties in the six-day wave of letter and incendiary bombs plaguing the British capital. Scotland Yard believes the bombers are terrorists from Northern Ireland and probably members of the Irish Republican Army.

The secretary-general of the stock exchange, 61-year-old George W.R. Brind, sustained minor hand wounds in the explosion. His 26-year-old secretary, Joanna Knight, who opened the booby-trapped letter, had serious hand injuries and minor facial and leg wounds.

Brind was sitting at his desk opposite Miss Knight when she opened the envelope addressed to George Loveday, the chairman of the stock exchange.

Police were called to the towering new exchange building at 9:25 a.m. to investigate a suspicious parcel, a police spokesman said, but the package blew up at 9:30 before they arrived.

Two other persons were hospitalized suffering from shock.

Ten letter bombs were received earlier this week by various government offices and organizations in London, and 15 small incendiary devices have been planted in leading department stores, causing slight damage.

Scotland Yard reported that one of the letter bombs was delivered to Prime Minister Edward Heath's office-residence and lay partially open in a mail tray for hours before a secretary realized its lethal contents.

Detectives revealed that the booby-trapped paperback book was delivered to No. 10 Downing St. on Tuesday in the first batch of letter bombs sent to

Skylab Crewmen Walk In Space, Replace Gyros

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Two Skylab 2 astronauts plan a four-hour space walk today to change telescope film and install a new "six pack" of gyroscopes.

Dr. Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma were to leave the space laboratory through an airlock about 11:10 a.m. EDT while orbiting 270 miles above the earth. They were to wear bulky space suits and be attached to 60-foot lifelines.

Lousma's job was to hook up cables for the new gyroscopes, while Garriott was to make the film switch. Gyroscopes keep the space station from tumbling out of control.

Skylab 2's commander, Alan L. Bean, was to remain inside, ready to control the spaceship during the gyroscope installation.

During a 15-minute period when neither the old nor the new gyros were to operate, officials expected the station to drift slightly in orientation. If the drift in roll, pitch or yaw should be more than expected, Bean was to maintain stability with the controls of the Apollo ferry ship docked at one end of the laboratory.

The space walk originally was planned only to change film in the battery of telescopes through which the astronauts observe and photograph the sun.

But during the Skylab 1 mission, the original set of gyroscopes became overheated and some started to deteriorate. So Bean, Garriott and Lousma brought up with them six replacement gyros in a container they have nicknamed a "gyro six pack."

The six pack has been mounted inside the space station. But the astronauts must go outside to complete the installation by connecting electrical cables to a computer system located in the same section that holds the telescopes.

The gyroscopes detect motion and relay this information to the computer which commands an attitude control system to make adjustments. This keeps the 85-ton Skylab flying through space on an even keel.

While outside, the two astronauts also were to retrieve an experiment which has been exposed to the space environment to collect interplanetary dust particles.

Early in the mission, Garriott and Lousma also took a space walk to change the telescope film and to erect a second sunshade to help cool the laboratory and supplement a shade put up by Skylab 1.

On Saturday at 8:01 a.m. EDT, Skylab 2 will set a new space endurance record, breaking the 28-day 50-minute mark established by Skylab 1 in June.

HIGH BIDS BIG HEADACHE—Bids for Circleville's proposed sewage treatment plant were $2 million more than the estimate. Studying the bids are, seated, from the left: Jon Chu, Hazen and Swayer engineer; Charles Taylor, public utilities department manager; standing, Don Wolf chief of operations of the sewer and water department and Mayor Frank Barnhill.

Sewage Plant Bids Too High

Two bids were received by Circleville Thursday for construction of its new sewage treatment plant and both were too high according to Charles Taylor, director of public utilities.

The low bid was submitted by Wander Inc. of Worthington and was $6,770,000, more than $2 million above the estimated cost. The other bid was submitted by Bay Construction and was in the amount of $7,195,000.

"We will have to take a hard look at the bids before reaching a decision but it looks like we will rebid the job," Taylor said Thursday following the opening.

The new sewer rate for Circleville is based on the construction cost estimate of $4,719,000 for the sewage treatment plant.

Total funding for the treatment plant, 48-inch interceptor line to replace the lift station at Ted Lewis Park and the new line needed from the park to the plant site is $6,736,000. The cost of the interceptor line is estimated at over $900,000. Cost of the line from the park to the plant site is estimated at over $500,000.

Of the total funding, $5,052,675 is an actual government grant while $1,683,325 must be repaid by the city. Yesterday's bids did not include construction of the two sewer lines since they have not been approved by Environmental Protection Agency authorities yet.

When and if the plant is rebid, the architects, Hazen and Swayer, will offer design alternatives to save money. These design alternatives cannot be anything that will effect the treatment process itself, and must be approved by EPA.

Taylor said that of the several sewage treatment plant construction jobs bid around the state recently all have been over the estimate although none as much as the local project.

"We will be studying the bids closely to determine in what areas they are the highest and where we can save money," he said.

A decision should be reached by Wednesday according to the director of public utilities director.

Present at the bid opening Thursday were: Taylor, Jon Chu, representing Hazen and Swayer, Mayor Frank Barnhill, George Fissell, representing the board of public utilities; City Councilman Ben Gordon, and 24 representatives of the two construction firms and their subcontractors.

Freezer Sales Spurt As Shoppers Seek To Save

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Many Ohioans will be dipping into the deep freeze instead of groaning over higher food prices after Sept. 12, a check of major freezer sellers indicated Thursday.

Appliance dealers throughout the state reported record freezer sales this year. Most said they had orders backed up for November delivery.

"Everybody and his brother is trying to get freezers," lamented Jay Seemong, a spokesman for General Electric in Cleveland. "I wish I had about five hundred of them."

"You can't beg, borrow or steal a freezer in Cleveland," said Bob Rutherford of Westinghouse. "As far as I know, there are none in town."

Charles Kinzig, sales manager for Admiral appliances in Columbus and Dayton said none of his outlets could guarantee freezer delivery until November.

He said production at the firm's Chicago plant was being speeded up to meet demands.

Kinzig said freezer sales were steadily increasing over the past two years because of more educated buyers.

"People are beginning to realize they can save a lot of money by buying food sale items in quantity and freezing them," he said.

He attributed a surge in sales the past few weeks to "scare buying" because of reported food shortages and expectations of price increases when beef price ceilings are lifted Sept. 12.

A spokesman for the Westinghouse major appliance plant at Columbus said the firm is backed up four months filling orders.

He said the freezer industry anticipated a 10 per cent increase in demand this year, but since mid-year the demand has skyrocketed to 60 and 70 per cent.

Ralph Jahn, Westinghouse sales analyst, said many of the freezers were for vegetables grown in home gardens to beat the high food costs. Freezing vegetables is easier than canning them, he said.

Another Westinghouse official, Jack Fooks, said studies were underway on how to increase freezer production at the plant, but he added he doubted if the sales trend would continue much longer.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued to rise today, but analysts said there was little news behind the advance. They attributed it mainly to a continuation of Thursday's 12-point rally.

Monte Gordon of Dreyfus Corp. said the market's climb was a carry-over from Thursday's technical rally that ended a five-session decline.

"Nothing's basically changed," he said.

The United States reported its balance of trade had a $106 million surplus last month, but the dollar fell sharply in Europe because West Germany announced its trade surplus was larger than expected.

The U.S. trade surplus "will certainly help" the market, remarked Gordon, but will be partly offset by the weakness of the dollar on foreign exchange markets.

Kissinger Plans Open Door Policy

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger says he and President Nixon will do their best to conduct foreign policy in an open manner if he is confirmed as secretary of state.

He told a news conference Thursday that he would be more accessible to Congress and would testify as frequently as the Senate Foreign Relations Committee desires.

He said President Nixon wanted it understood that executive privilege would be invoked only with respect to personal conversations or direct advice Kissinger gives to Nixon.

The President announced at a news conference Wednesday that Secretary of State William P. Rogers is resigning. Nixon said he was nominating Kissinger as Rogers' successor. Kissinger has been Nixon's national security adviser, a post he will continue to hold.

Kissinger told reporters: "The purpose of combining the two positions is, as the President pointed out yesterday, an attempt to move policymaking from the White House into the department and therefore to make it more accessible to congressional and public scrutiny."

"I would therefore expect to testify about all matters that secretaries of state have traditionally testified." Discussing the effects of Watergate, the suttained Kissinger noted at his outdoor news conference that Nixon had to cancel a Latin American trip "because he has been preoccupied with domestic matters."

He said he believed the effect of Watergate on the conduct of foreign policy can be minimized, especially since an effort will be made to emphasize foreign policies that have the widest possible support among the American people.

Kissinger said he intends to make a previously scheduled trip to Peking, but that it would not be appropriate to do so until after he gets Senate confirmation.

He cautioned against linking his Peking trip with any possible Cambodia peace negotiations. That problem now depends "to a great extent on the decisions of the Cambodian parties," he said.

Taking a look at what's ahead in the Nixon administration, Kissinger said there would be more emphasis on U.S. relationships with Europe and Japan.

He predicted that a presidential trip to Europe this fall "will be for a significant substantive result and not simply on a 'grand tour,'" as Nixon once described it.

Californians Get Rebate From $829 Million Surplus

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Californians begin reaping a one-time tax bonanza Oct. 1, getting back a total of $721 million in state treasury surplus.

That figures out to nearly $35 for every man, woman and child in the state.

Gov. Ronald Reagan called it the largest state tax rebate in the nation's history when he signed the bill into law Thursday.

The first day attendance was almost 4,000 better than 1972.

The spokesman said concessionaires were reporting a 20 to 30 per cent increase in sales over last year.

The weatherman held out with good weather throughout the inauguration. Forecasts for today predicted a 30 per cent chance of thundershowers or showers.

For the weekend, the forecast was fair with temperatures in the upper 70s and 80s.

Leadership Crisis Seen Facing U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressmen looking beyond the partisan gains and losses of Watergate see a crisis developing in the national leadership as a result of President Nixon's waning influence on Capitol Hill.

The climax could come this fall, says Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., with Nixon either recovering enough ground to carry on with reduced authority or being forced by events to resign.

Although either prospect would enhance congressional power, neither is pleasing to Udall or other congressmen concerned about the future relationship between Congress and the executive branch.

"Our system of government requires a strong executive and we're just not going to have one as long as Nixon remains in office," Rep. Sam M. Gibbons, D-Fla., said in an interview. "We have serious leadership problems with the economy that have to be solved."

Neither Gibbons nor Udall sees any likelihood that Nixon will be impeached. "It's too wrenching, too severe," said Udall in a radio interview (CBS' Capitol Cloakroom).

However, Udall said Nixon's resignation is "a real live possibility" if inflation and other economic problems continue unabated and the resumed Watergate hearings in the Senate produce any further disclosures damaging to the administration.

"At that point, conservative, mainline Republicans and Wall Street and the business community might say 'for the good of the country you've got to step down'."

If that point were reached, Udall said, Nixon would find some way to remove Vice President Spiro T. Agnew so he could appoint another vice president to succeed him.

"It's clear to me Nixon is not at all happy with the choice he made for vice president," Udall said.

Democrats can see a bright side to Watergate in the resurgence of Congress, which they control, but for Republicans it has cast a deepening pall. Reports from GOP members after visits to their home districts during the current congressional recess reflect widespread dissatisfaction with Nixon's response to Watergate.

"I do not doubt that confidence in the President is badly eroded," said Rep. Barber B. Conable Jr., R-N.Y., a Nixon loyalist and highly respected member of the House, in a report to his constituents.

"A good leader in foreign policy and a man with excellent domestic policy concepts, his attention to detail and oversight of delegated authority has been so faulty as to raise serious questions about the administration of his office," Conable said.

President Shows Small Gain In Poll

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — President Nixon's popularity rose following his Watergate speech last week from the alltime low it had reached earlier this month, the Gallup Poll reports.

But the poll said Wednesday that a survey conducted Aug. 17-20 showed a majority of Americans, 54 per cent, still disapprove of his performance in office.

The survey also showed that the majority of the 1,452 adults questioned are dissatisfied with his Watergate explanation and believe that he either knew about plans to bug Democratic headquarters or was involved in the cover-up.

The poll said 38 per cent of the respondents approved of the President's performance in office, an increase of seven percentage points from an all-time low recorded in an Aug. 3-6 poll.

Nixon's highest approval rating occurred last January after the Vietnam peace settlement, when 68 per cent of the people questioned approved of his performance.

In the latest poll, 9 per cent said they believed Nixon planned the Watergate bugging from the beginning; 24 per cent said he did not plan the scheme but knew about it beforehand; 40 per cent believed he had no previous knowledge although he tried to cover it up; and 23 per cent said he had no prior knowledge and spoke up as soon as he learned about it. Four per cent had no opinion.

The Gallup Poll said that despite the fact that most of the respondents did not believe the President, 70 per cent said they were opposed to impeachment proceedings, while 23 per cent favored impeachment. Seven per cent had no opinion.

Japanese Are Short Of Water

TOKYO (AP) — When employees of Tokyo Imperial Hotel went to work this week, they found this notice on the bulletin board:

"Use only two out of three bathrooms. Hot water cannot be supplied. Cooks and night shift staff are urged to take showers only once, either late at night or early in the morning, instead of twice as usual."

Similar notices urging Japanese to conserve water went up in other hotels, offices and public buildings.

The reason is that Japan, which has filled the world with its products, is having trouble filling its own water tanks. A dry spell has left most of the country short.

No one is going thirsty. But except for the islands of Okinawa in the south and Hokkaido in the far north, the Japanese and their industries are being told to think twice before turning on the faucet.

"We are hoping for a typhoon," joked an official of the Tokyo waterworks.

At the start of the week, Tokyo authorities cut water supplies by 20 per cent to about 224 power plants, factories, railway stations, hotels, department stores, schools and hospitals.

The cuts hit institutions that consume more than 500 tons of water a day, particularly factories.

The water supply to Tokyo's 2.5 million homes was reduced Wednesday by 7 per cent. So far, the cuts in Tokyo do not produce dry taps. They just lower the water pressure.

The Central Meteorological Agency said the last measurable rain in Tokyo and the surrounding Kanto Plain fell Aug. 1. Officials added that July rainfall in the area measured 1.7 inches, a sharp decline from the normal average of 7.2 inches for that month. The forecast is for more dry, hot weather.

Important Facts You Should Know About How To Improve Gas Mileage

A LOT DEPENDS ON HOW YOU DRIVE

Quick Starts

Gasoline can be conserved (and engine and tire life prolonged) by avoiding unnecessarily rapid acceleration away from lights and stop signs.

Stop-and-start Driving

Frequent stops and starts during a trip really cut down on your miles per gallon. Plan even your short shopping trips to take advantage of through streets to avoid traffic lights. Pace your driving like the professional drivers to avoid unnecessary stops.

Speed Versus Mileage

High speeds substantially increase gas consumption. Statistics prove that driving at 50 mph versus 70 mph can result in a fuel saving of about 20%.

Excessive Idling

An idling engine uses gasoline too, (especially after a cold engine start). If you're faced with more than a few minutes wait, you're better off to "turn off" and start again later.

Excess Weight

No need to carry your outboard motor, golf clubs and heavy tools everywhere you go. Even 100 lbs. of excess weight begins to affect your gas mileage.

Pumping The Accelerator

Every "pump" of the pedal means a charge of extra gasoline going through the carburetor. It's a bad habit to pump the accelerator after starting the engine or while waiting for a traffic light to change.

A LOT DEPENDS ON YOUR CAR

Properly Tuned Engine

Overall tuning (a check on timing, distributor points, spark plugs, emission control devices, etc.) can measurably improve your car's performance. You just can't expect an "out-of-tune" engine to give you good gas mileage.

Tire Inflation

Under inflation not only causes needless wear of the tires, but can also waste gasoline. It's a good idea to check tire pressures regularly.

Wheel Alignment

"Toe in" or "Toe out" has the effect of dragging your front tires sideways and causes premature tire wear. It takes power to carry this extra load and that takes gas from your tank.

Fuel Selection

Check to see if your car can use unleaded or low-lead gasoline. Use of this type of fuel will reduce lead deposits and the possibility of spark plug fouling which can drastically reduce fuel economy.

Lubricants

A properly lubricated engine means less friction between moving parts. Consult your owner's manual for the proper lubricants to use and the lubrication intervals.

Automatic Choke

Your automatic choke should be checked periodically as it regulates the gasoline/air mixture used in starting and warming the engine.

Return Of The Blimp

For the first third of the twentieth century a unique chapter in transportation was written by the dirigible, or Zeppelin as it was called after its inventor. But the military uses employed by the Germans, especially a nighttime bombing raid on England in World War I, and the burning of the Hindenburg as it came in for a landing at Lakehurst, N.J., in 1937, put an end to the flying cigar's popularity.

That end may have been premature. American interests have been using a soft-shelled version of the dirigible for commercial purposes and Navy experiments for decades. Now the Germans and others are finding revived interest in modern blimps to perform a growing list of commercial and scientific assignments.

Requests coming into the offices of one German blimp manufacturer include such contemporary uses as monitoring air pollution, protecting fishing rights, supplying off-shore oil derricks, assembling prefabricated houses and a number of other freight-carrying feats. One blimp already in service carries 10,000 light bulbs as part of a computer-activated flying billboard.

Several other countries are considering entering the blimp field. The huge gas bags ironically seem to have a brighter future in the supersonic age than they did when flying of any kind was in its infancy.

Forgiveness, Probation

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Although I've been around for a bit, the Young Americans for Freedom were nice enough to ask me to serve as a host along with Dean Clarence Manion and General Thomas Lane on the evening of Senator Barry Goldwater's address to the seventh annual YAF National Convention. The YAFers, coming by the hundreds from all over the country, had practically taken over the Sheraton-Park Hotel for five days of seminars and politicking.

What was particularly inspiring to me about the gathering was the realization that the young conservatives and libertarians have a resurgent movement going at a time when the Students for a Democratic Society and other Leftist youth relics of the Sixties have been fading faster than the dollar on the Zurich exchange on the day before a devaluation.

The main portent for older Republicans in this YAF convention is that the young conservatives obviously hold other things than Watergate against the Nixon Administration. Sen. Barry Goldwater caught the mood of the gathering when he elaborated on his personal dilemma. In Barry's opinion Nixon, though he had not added anything to his previous declarations of innocence in his speech to the nation, had charity coming to him. It was time, so the YAFers' favorite Senator said, to pass on to some of the real problems that confront the republic. Watergate should not be allowed to obscure the mandate of the 1972 election. President Nixon had done good things. He had gotten those troops and POWs out of Southeast Asia and was on the way toward bringing the war to a somewhat honorable conclusion.

But at this point Barry Goldwater hit one savage note. Slashing out at Nixonomics, he said price controls had never worked and could not work. So Nixonomics, though the public may be confused on the point, is not going to carry out the anti-inflationary mandate of 1972 until it really tackles the monetary origins of our troubles.

Senator Jesse Helms, the new Republican from North Carolina, a junior hero to the YAFers, had earlier sailed into Nixonomics with his complaint that deficit spending under five years of Nixon had been six times the debt accumulated by Franklin Roosevelt during the first five years of the New Deal. Helms didn't put all the blame on Nixon—Capitol Hill, he said, was the source of inflation. But the pretext that the damage done by Capitol Hill can be mitigated by freezes and controls without doing anything about the debt is a stupidity that is more damaging than the stupidities that led to Watergate.

The YAFers, cheering this sort of thing from their old and new heroes, made it perfectly clear they were not in Richard Nixon's pocket. Charity is being extended to the Administration only on condition that something is done to carry out the conservative mandate. Nixon may not think that YAF is the country. But the YAFers are the young cutting edge of something. The conservatives have been delinquent in applying pressure on the White House to counter the more calculated and better organized Leftist pressures. Nevertheless, the conservatives have the veto power for 1976. And the YAFers, growing older, will be there to see to it that it is exercised.

Spito Agnew's name got a cheer from the crowd; the Vice President is not being condemned in advance of positive proof of wrongdoing. But YAFers are partial to Reagan buttons. One heard plenty of gossip about a subterranean Reagan push. Clifton White, the hero of so many primary managerial exploits, should know that he is suspected of being hard at work on Reagan campaign preliminaries. The Senate Watergate hearings have not really made Senator Baker's name a talisman with the young; how could they when Watergate itself is being presented by Goldwater and Helms as an aberration to be forgiven white the White House is placed on a probationary period?

Other issues than Watergate are due to take over when Congress reassembles. Wheat, meat, the post-Cambodia situation, the revelation that the Salt 1 agreements have not kept the Soviets from making an ominous atomic warhead breakthrough, the need to restore the dollar—all of these obviously concern the young far more than the Watergate investigation. Both the White House and the Senators are going to be judged "post-Watergate." And woe to the White House if it can't come up with a program to carry out the promises of 1972.

Air Standards May Be Eased Of The Past To Permit More Use Of Coal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency soon may ease its tightest air quality standards to allow power plants to continue burning coal, an administration source says.

An announcement of the move could come as early as today or Friday, the source said.

The source indicated EPA was considering an easing of its secondary standard limiting the permissible concentration of sulfur oxides in the air.

But there would be no tampering with the federal primary standards designed to protect human health, the source insisted.

Both the primary standards and the more stringent secondary standards, designed to protect plants, animals, property and the environment, were set by EPA on April 30, 1971.

Under federal law the primary standards for clean air must be achieved by mid-1975, but the law provides that each state may set its own deadline for meeting the secondary standards.

Twenty-two states have adopted mid-1975 as their deadline for secondary standards.

Administration officials say the clean air standards, especially the secondary standards, are causing fossil-fueled power plants to begin switching from sulfur-laden coal to low-sulfur oil.

And that increases the strain on the nation's already tight supplies of oil and gas, they contend.

For the past few months, EPA and other administration spokesmen have been suggesting that the states postpone application of secondary standards for three or four years, and allow power plants and other industrial buildings to continue using coal while devices to clean up coal-smoke are brought into the market.

It was not clear whether the administration's forthcoming announcement would revoke the annual-average limit, or change existing standards to permit higher levels of sulfur oxide.

Order No Hunting On Commission Land

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Youth Commission says it's against the law to hunt on property belonging to youth institutions.

The commission took the action Tuesday after learning that employees were allowed to hunt at the Fairfield School for Boys.

The board acted after another state agency warned an inmate could overpower a hunter and use the gun in an escape.

Yale Doctorate Goes To Youngest

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Pianist Andre Watts, 26, this year became the youngest person to receive an honorary doctorate from Yale University since 1776.

The citation read in part, "In an age which too often glorifies the spontaneous and depreciates competence, you offer the example of a person of most formidable accomplishment who has nevertheless sought painful perfection with all the intensity that has been the mark of the great artist of every age."

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My brother has had fever for the past year. He is never without it. Sometimes it goes up as high as 103. No one seems to be able to find the cause.

Miss N.D., Ga.

Dear Miss D.:

Fever of unknown origin is one of the most baffling problems that the physician has to deal with. Even after the most exhaustive tests are made, the answer may still be elusive.

Fever is a remarkable phenomenon. It is a great indicator of the body's reaction to invading bacteria, to inflammation, and to infection.

Fever indicates that the body forces are at work and, in fact, it represents that body's constant effort to conquer disease.

Persistent fever can be frustrating and demand the tireless coordinated efforts of doctors.

When first confronted by such a baffling problem, doctors tabulate all the possibilities, and then proceed to rule out one at a time. Among the numerous diseases they must consider the obvious ones, of course, are investigated first.

Tuberculosis, typhoid fever, typhus fever, amoebic dysentery, rheumatic fever, vascular diseases, liver disease, malaria, and many other infections that are less common are carefully checked out.

People coming from other countries throughout the world may have picked up parasites, or acquired hepatitis that would account for prolonged fever. It would be a monumental task to list every possible cause of persistent fever.

When the cause of fever eludes the physician, complicated blood studies are performed at some Government institutions, where the most bizarre types of infection are considered.

The characteristic graph of fever due to malaria is readily recognized.

It is an interesting phenomenon that for many years the type of fever has often given a clue to its cause. For example, some fevers reach a plateau and stay there. Other fevers may range from normal to 103 and higher at almost the same time every day.

My daughter goes on a banana diet to lose weight quickly. Can this be harmful?

Mrs. T. F., Nev.

Dear Mrs. F.:

Bananas are highly nutritious, palatable and readily digestible. They have a high mineral and vitamin content.

Their great qualification for dieters is that they contain only about 80 to 100 calories. And they do have a "filling," hunger-satisfying quality that is helpful to people who have difficulty resisting the call of the hunger pangs.

However, even with supplementary vitamins such a diet should continue for a short time only, and under the doctor's supervision.

NEW YORK (AP)—Remarks that a headwaiter gets tired of hearing:

"Here at the restaurant he's known as Maurice, but at home everybody in the neighborhood still calls him Joe."

"The only French Maurice knows is what he picked up from a foreign phrase book a customer left here 20 years ago."

"I know I've sent the steak back three times, pardner, and I'll keep on sending it back until you bring me a real piece of steer. I'm from Texas, and I know what good steak is."

"We're operating in the red now, Maurice, and I can't raise your salary."

But I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll list you on the menu as our maitre d'hotel. Maybe with that title you can pick up more palm money from our clientele."

"What if he isn't wearing a jacket, Maurice? Let him in anyway. He owns a 20-acre ranch in the middle of Albuquerque."

"Push the corned beef hash all week, Maurice. If there's any left Friday night, the staff is going to be paid in it."

"Our usual table, please, Maurice. My wife and I just flew in from the Riviera, and we're totally exhausted. If our usual table is taken, I'm afraid we'll have to dine elsewhere."

ROTHERHAM, England (AP) — Britain's state-owned steel corporation is building this country's first pollution-free steel mill, a plant designed to erase the grimy and noisy image of heavy industry.

The $67.5 million mill has been specially designed to eliminate air and water pollution and to minimize noise in the River Don Valley of Yorkshire.

The British Steel Corp.—BSC—boasts it will be as technically advanced as any in Europe. It will be built to specifications laid out by Lord Melchett, the BSC head until his death in June and a strong advocate of environment protection.

Preparation of the mill site, near Rotherham in northern England, started in May. Production is expected to begin in mid-1975, with the mill producing 400,000 metric tons of high quality steel bars annually by 1977.

The mill will be part of British Steel's Aldwarke and Roundwood steel-making complex. It will be known as the Thrybergh Bar Mill.

Close attention has been paid by its designers to eradicating pollution from the production process.

A BSC spokesman said: "As far as air pollution is concerned, the crucial stage of the operation, which is the reheating furnace, will use a low sulphur fuel.

"This will result in no visible emission and the stack height will be so arranged to ensure effective dispersal and negligible contamination of the atmosphere."

The plant will take its water supply from the Don. The spokesman said: "Steps have been taken to ensure the water, used for cooling, will probably be cleaner when it is put back into the river than it was when we removed it."

He added: "The main noise problem comes toward the end of production when the finished bars are rattling about. We are doing as much as possible to damp this down."

The mill is being built on ground only half a mile from the village of Thrybergh which lies on the main Rotherham to Doncaster road.

A natural incline will hide most of the plant from view but additional landscaping is being included in the project to ensure that mill buildings do not interfere with the visual surroundings.

Dear Abby:

Bushy Toupee Covers

DEAR ABBY: I am serious about a young man I've been dating for nearly a year. Since we've been dating he has been slowly losing his hair. He is far from bald, Abby. His hairline IS receding a little, and he's getting a bit thin on top, but he certainly doesn't give the impression of being bald. I knew he was rather self-conscious about it, but I never realized how much until last evening when he showed up in a full toupee! I nearly fell over.

It is so full and unnatural looking it looks ridiculous. He thinks it looks great, and it has given him so much confidence, I hate to tell him the truth. But I want the old HIM back. What should I do?

MISSING HIM

DEAR MISSING: I don't care if a man wears a rug he can fly to Bagdad on, if HE thinks it looks great and it has restored his confidence, keep quiet. In time, you might suggest he have it "trimmed" a bit or replaced with a more natural-looking one. But for the moment, don't undermine his confidence.

DEAR ABBY: Something bothers me. Whenever I clean out my closets and drawers I have a lot of clothes, shoes, purses, and lingerie I want to discard because I know I'll never wear them again, but I honestly don't know what to do with them. I hate to throw them away so I just pack them in boxes and store them in the attic. Most things are good as new. Some I hardly wore—they are "mistakes" I made by buying them.

I don't want to offer them to friends, relatives, or neighbors because I don't

Visions Of Christ Quite Similar

NEW YORK (AP) — In rare instances, some Christian believers report personal, visual encounters with Jesus. Studies of the phenomenon by two Swedish sociologists have turned up some consistent characteristics about it.

The scientists, Berndt Gustafsson and Gunnar Hillerdal of the Institute of Religious Sociology, report that interviews with about 20 people who claim such experiences show that they usually describe Jesus in similar terms.

Most of them say they saw him as a "shining figure with tender, sparkling eyes and many said He blessed them with outstretched arms," the sociologists said. They said most of the reported encounters took place in people's own homes, a few while they were at work, but none in church.

The findings are among numerous recent reports of research touching on religion. One of them, by Dr. George W. Comstock of the John Hopkins School of Hygiene and Public Health, did so only accidentally without intending to do so.

Coincidence or not, however, the analysis of replies to socio-economic questionnaires found that men who did not go to church regularly were twice as likely to have heart attacks as those who went once a week or more.

In a similar vein, a study of consumer attitudes done some time ago by a public relations firm, Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn, found that religious people are "notably happier" than nonreligious people.

The findings singled out eight different elements connected with happiness, with religion found to be the most highly correlated and people claiming to be "very religious" mostly likely to be "very happy."

Another study, indicating that religious belief remains about as high as ever, was made by the Kansas City Star.

In telephone interviews with 281 persons in that heartland area, representing a broad range in age and education, the Star's religion editor Helen T. Gott found that 66.1 per cent believe in God.

Only 1 per cent did not believe and 3.2 per cent were uncertain. The high proportion of belief is about the same as that which has turned up for more than 20 years in similar surveys, both regional and national.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Chester Peters, 641 W. Main St., Ashville and the late Mr. Chester C. Peters. Mr. and Mrs. Dale Logsdon, Route 2, Ashville are parents of the bridegroom.

The church was decorated with altar vases filled with white gladioli, Fuji mums and baby's breath, candelabra trimmed in greenery with white satin bows and streamers and white satin bows with carnations and greenery marked the pews. Wedding selections were by Mrs. David Dill, organist and Mrs. Tom Purcell, vocalist.

The bride was given in marriage by her grandfather, Mr. Donald P. Courtright. She was attired in a full length gown of white silk organza with an embroidered bodice and puffed sleeves. The gown featured a detachable train of plain and embroidered organza. Her veil of nylon tulle cascaded from a lace and pearl trim cap to elbow length. The bride carried a cascade arrangement of white miniature carnations, stephanotis and baby's breath with streamers of ivy.

Maid of honor, Miss Judith Rife, wore a white dotted swiss gown with flocked pastel flowers. She carried a colonial bouquet of daisy pompons, carnations and baby's breath.

Bridesmaids were Miss Deb Ramsey, Miss Lydia Wilson and Miss Sharon Kuhlwein. They were gowned as the honor attendant and carried matching bouquets.

Master Andy Houser served as ring bearer.

Performing the duties of best man was Mr. Ray Yeager. Ushers were Mr. Rick Peters, brother of the bride; Mr. Jim Logsdon, brother of the groom and Mr. Bill Rinabarger.

The bride's mother selected a three piece pink ensemble with matching accessories for her daughter's wedding. Her corsage was of Jack Frost roses and pink trim.

The bridegroom's mother was attired in a blue floor length gown. Her corsage, also of Jack Frost roses, was trimmed with blue ribbon.

A reception in the church social room immediately followed the ceremony. The four tiered wedding cake was wreathed in pompon mums and greenery decorated with lavender, pink, green and yellow flowers, and topped with the traditional wedding bells. Flower decorated candelabra flanked the cake.

On Books And Activities At The Library

Now would be an ideal time for that "family visit" to the library! Now is the time to get your youngster used to reading again before the start of school. If your child is in the critical learn-to-read ages of 6 through 10 and has not cracked a book all summer, he especially needs to practice and sharpen his hard-earned reading before school begins.

All summer long, he's watched the family enjoy outdoor living — swimming, cooking out, fishing, picnicing, going to baseball games, taking motor jaunts and all the other hot weather activities. He's now convinced that these leisure pursuits are among "the ginger thing in life." Now is the time to let him see you reading and enjoying a good book. You owe it to him to demonstrate the life-long fun and adventure that awaits him in the wonderful world of books! Bring the entire family to the Library soon! If you haven't been here since June, you'll find many new titles for your reading taste and needs!

Check out one of the new books that would help you be a better parent. We have added some additional copies of Dr. Haim Ginott's "Between Parent and Child," "Primer for Parents of Pre-Schoolers" by Edith G. Neisser and "Three Years to Grow: Guidance for Your Child's First Three Years" by Sara Gilbert offer suggestions and information which will aid parents of young children make decisions regarding their child's upbringing. "Character in the Making" by Doris P. Mogal offers direction for parents of the 6 to 10 age group. "Growing into Adolescence" by Lynn Minton seeks to provide help for the parents of teenagers. "The Responsive Parent" by Mary B. Hoover will prove useful for parents with children of any age. Elizabeth Post's "Please, Say Please: A Common Sense Guide to Bringing Up Your Child" contains suggestions to help parents who want their child to develop into a considerate, attractive and self-respecting person.

Family food budgets are a problem. With ever rising food costs, housewives are looking for attractive low cost meals to serve their families. Many excellent suggestions for shopping, food substitution tips, and menus and recipes for main meals are contained in "Pillsbury's Money Saving Meals." "Betty Crocker's Family Dinners in a Hurry" gives recipes for appetizing meals and menus which can be easily and quickly prepared by busy mothers or working wives. Another popular cookbook is "Betty Crocker's All Time Favorites." Mothers might welcome the helpful suggestions for quick, easy ways to provide high nutritional, low cost foods for baby contained in "The Complete Guide to Preparing Baby Food at Home" by Sue Castle. Come browse in the Cook Book Section. We have many new cook books of all types, as well as many popular old favorites.

We are also beginning to get calls for information on how to kill and dress poultry. "Butchering, Processing and Preservation of Meat: A Manual for Farm and Home" by Frank G. Ashford gives detailed information, not only about poultry, but hogs and cattle as well. If you have taken to catching your own fish or plan to do some hunting this fall, don't overlook these helpful books — "Game and Fish From Field to Table" by Roy Wall and "Home Book of Smoke — Cooking Meat, Fish & Game" by Jack Sleight. The latter book gives information about both old and new ways of smoking, information about brines and seasonings, and step-by-step instructions and recipes for curing store-bought or fresh-caught meat — fish, fowl, large or small game.

The new non-fiction titles that have come in this week may have more appeal for the men in the family. "Effective Managerial Leadership" by James J. Cribben attempts to provide realistic guidelines which managers may adapt to their own workday situations. "The Age of Systems: The Human Dilemma" by William Exton, Jr. explores the problems created because systems designed for achieving objectives were not designed to meet human needs.

Three new volumes of "The Encyclopedia of Discovery and Exploration" came in this week. For the armchair mountain climber or sea diver, we recommend "The Last Frontiers." The first section tells of the opening of the polar regions — the Arctic and the Antarctic regions. The second section tells of the conquest of the high mountains of the world. The final section is devoted to the exploration of the underwater world. The other two volumes are "Exploring Africa and Asia" and "Pacific Voyages."

Don't forget to stop in at the Bookmobile Garage. We are having our annual booksale of old and discarded titles or duplicate copies. There are some mysteries, westerns, children's books, biographies, cook books, craft books, old books. Many contain good basic information, but have been superseded by up to date editions. Many could be used for home reference. Bargain Prices! Last day of sale is Saturday.

Ex-Officials Deny Burglary Claims

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon claims burglaries such as the one in the Daniel Ellsberg case occurred "on a very large scale" during the Johnson and Kennedy years.

But some officials from those administrations deny any knowledge of such break-ins.

"No activity was authorized by me and I think we're entitled to know what he's talking about," said former Atty. Gen. Nicholas deB. Katzenbach, who served in the Justice Department in various positions under both Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson.

George Christian, former press secretary to Johnson, said: "I don't know what he is talking about." Nixon, at his press conference Wednesday in San Clemente, Calif., said he views as "illegal, unauthorized and completely deplorable" the burglary of the office of the psychiatrist of Pentagon Papers defendant Daniel Ellsberg by a unit directed by White House aides.

But he also noted that under both Kennedy and Johnson, "burglarizing of this type" took place "on a very large scale."

Nixon did not elaborate and Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren refused to give details.

In Washington, a Justice Department spokesman refused to confirm or deny that such burglaries had taken place in the past, saying the information "can only come from the White House."

Nixon last May, in a lengthy statement on Watergate, first mentioned that there may have been burglaries for national security purposes engaged in by the FBI during previous administrations.

But, he said, the FBI had halted such activities in 1966.

Nixon also admitted, in the same May 22 statement, that in 1970 he had approved a plan for expanded domestic intelligence gathering that included "surreptitious entry—breaking and entering, in effect" in national security situations. But Nixon said the plan, proposed by former presidential aide Tom Charles Huston, never was put into effect because of opposition from the late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

Katzenbach, who was deputy attorney general under former Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy and served as attorney general from 1965-1966, said he felt Nixon's accusations were unfair.

"He ought to say who authorized it and who knew about it," said Katzenbach.

Stonehenge, a massive stone complex used for religious purposes, was constructed on Salisbury Plain, England, between 1900 and 1400 B.C.

Special Events Set During Demo Telethon

The telethon will be broadcast live from Los Angeles.

Half the money raised in Ohio will be divided among the Ohio Democratic Party and counties participating in telethon activities.

Shaul Letter Under Fire

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Atty. Gen. William J. Brown is trying to find out who paid for the letter state Commerce Director Dennis Shaul mailed out last year urging real estate brokers and salesmen to help defeat a proposal to repeal the state income tax.

Brown contends that Shaul should have filed a report on campaign expenditures if the commerce director sent the letters at his own expense. The attorney general said no such report was filed.

He said if the letters were sent at state expense, he'll have to decide if public money can be spent to promote or defeat issues on election ballots.

Preliminary research indicated that there is no ban on spending state money for such campaigns, according to state Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson.

Shaul was not available for comment. The proposal was defeated in last November's election.

Food Price Surge Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers can expect another surge in food prices after Sept. 12, but the administration says it shouldn't be as bad as the last big increase.

The Cost of Living Council Wednesday released its proposed new Phase 4 food price controls scheduled to take effect Sept. 12.

The council said the controls basically will put the food industry under the same restrictions on price increases as the rest of the economy. Officials said the controls will require "a substantial cost absorption on the part of food wholesalers and retailers" and will keep prices below what they might otherwise be.

Council director John T. Dunlop said "some price increases at the consumer level are expected" when the regulations go into effect. But he predicted consumers would not be as hard-hit as they were when the price freeze was lifted from food on July 18.

Administration economists have acknowledged that post-freeze price increases were higher than expected. The council invited public comment on the regulations until Sept. 4, after which they could be revised.

Under the prevailing temporary food regulations that went into effect on July 18, all levels of the food industry may increase prices only to reflect increased costs at the producer level, known as raw agricultural costs.

The new regulations will allow food wholesalers and retailers, such as supermarkets, to increase their prices to reflect other justified costs, such as for labor or transportation.

They will not allow price increases for profit. A supermarket, for example, must maintain the same profit markup, or margin, as it had in a base period.

The base period can be either of the two fiscal years ending before Feb. 5.

Not Far From Main Street

Just for a minute, think about the local places you have loved . . . the old swimming hole, the town park, the walk by the river, the view from the hill—your church! Life would be so much less without them; yet we tend to take them for granted.

What a beautiful world God has created for us! How much He must love us to have given us shaded valleys and sparkling waters! He planned for us the constant variety of the changing seasons. For our enjoyment, He made trees and grasses, flowers and fruits. Before such miraculous inventiveness, science stands baffled and incredulous.

It is obvious that behind all creation there is a power greater than we, a power constantly concerned with man's development. In the church of your choice you will find the opportunity to give thanks for the gifts of creation. Here, too, you will learn to understand better the complexities of our world. You will find a faith that will sustain you throughout life.

Hair Length Said Issue

NEW YORK (AP) — The right of an individual outside the armed forces to wear his hair at any length has been termed a "substantial constitutional issue" by the U.S. Court of Appeals.

The three-judge panel ruled unanimously that an order by the Suffolk County Police Department regulating the length of policemen's hair was open to challenge in a federal court.

The appeals court reversed the dismissal by Judge Jacob Mishler in U.S. District Court in Brooklyn of a suit brought by the county Patrolmen's Benevolent Association challenging the personal appearance edict.

An individual's right to "style his own appearance" was guaranteed under the "due process clause of personal liberty," wrote Judge J. Joseph Smith in an opinion concurred in by Chief Judge Irving R. Kaufman and Judge Frederick vanPelt Bryan.

Judge Smith noted that the frequent defense of such appearance codes on the grounds that police departments were "para-military or quasi military" organizations "seems to us not warranted."

"Discipline, although essential to an effective police force, as it is to the military, is clearly of a different type," the judge wrote.

OYC Director Denies Charges

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Youth Commission Director William Ensign said Wednesday's criticism of his department by a state labor leader was precipitated by union membership troubles.

Ensign made the comment shortly after a news conference in which Jim Marshall, head of the Ohio Civil Service Employees Association, accused the OYC of misuse of funds.

Marshall claimed the OYC was using a 23 per cent budget increase to build plush offices and hire more administrative personnel while services were being cut back at youth rehabilitation facilities.

"I'm surprised at Jim. He usually comes to me first if he thinks we are having any problems," Ensign said.

"I believe that his real concern is that under a new OYC policy of taking youths out of institutions and placing them in foster homes, we are experiencing a reduction in employees."

For example, he said, the staff at the Fairfield School for Boys at Lancaster has been reduced from 458 to 400 since 1970.

But, he said, the reduction was the result of attrition, and no one was laid off.

In the past, Marshall criticized the OYC for housing 623 youngsters at the Fairfield School on a budget meant for 400, and alleged the commission turned down the school on meat requests.

Mike LoPresti, school administrator, confirmed 623 residents at the facility, but said many of the younger boys were scheduled to be transferred to other facilities geared to handle them.

He also denied a meat shortage, or being turned down on meat requests. The school had enough meat to last through September, he said.

C. B. Hayslett, superintendent for the Columbus Juvenile Diagnostic Center, denied Marshall's allegations that the center was sending youngsters to a hospital 20 minutes away for night medical treatment because it couldn't afford to hire a night nurse.

He said the center was in the process of filling four vacancies on the 5 p.m. to 10 p.m. shift, but that two nurses were on duty and a doctor on call during the overnight hours.

Money was available to hire personnel for the early evening shift, he said, "but we just can't find the people to fill them."

Marshall claimed most of the OYC's budget boost went to increase office floor space at a new suburban Columbus office site.

Ensign said the new offices represented a consolidation of several OYC bureaus and were less expensive than maintaining offices in downtown Columbus.

He said the 23 per cent budget increase figure included anticipated federal revenues and that the commission's budget had actually been decreased by $4 million this year by the General Assembly.

Tomahawk Craftsman's Work On Display At State Museum

Pipe tomahawks and a flintlock pistol made by Robert L. Ely, 1117 McGraw Road, are currently being displayed in the Ohio Historical Society Museum just north of the Ohio State Fairgrounds, Columbus.

Ely, a sergeant in the State Highway Patrol, devotes much of his off-duty time to making tomahawks and muzzle loading firearms.

His study of shop and metal working began when he was about 12-years-old at Lancaster. He learned the trade from his friend, Merle Nixon, a gunsmith and restorer of Antique arms who is still working at the age of 81.

In addition to being a skilled craftsman, the state patrol chemist has also become an authority on the history of Indian weapons and colonial firearms.

Metal pipe tomahawks similar to the ones crafted by Ely were the favorite weapons of the American Indians in the 18th and 19th centuries. Tomahawks were usually obtained by the Indians from the white men by way of the fur trade. Sometimes ornate tomahawks were presented to individual Indians by government representatives in recognition of some service, or to Indian leaders in order to gain their friendship or support as allies.

Pipe tomahawks, a combination of tobacco pipe and hatchet, were usually made of iron or brass with a steel cutting edge insured into the blade. Specimens cast of brass or pewter without a steel cutting edge were mostly for ceremonial or show purposes. The pipe bowl was sometimes forged or cast as an integral part of the tomahawk or was attached by a screw-threaded stem or by forge welding or brazing.

INDIAN WEAPONS—One of the tomahawks on display has a handle made from wood from Logan Elm. Sgt. Robert Ely has made 54 tomahawks. Each takes about 100 hours of work.

TOMAHAWK MAKER—Sgt. Robert L. Ely of the Ohio Highway Patrol, Circleville, stands beside the display of tomahawks he has made at the Ohio Historical Society Museum in Columbus.

The pipe tomahawk as a pattern probably dates from about 1700. It was widely distributed among the North American Indians, especially those east of the Mississippi, but also in some areas of the West.

The name tomahawk comes from the Algonkian Indian Language. Captain John Smith of the Jamestown settlement was probably the first writer to introduce the word into the English Language. He defined "tomahak" as the Indian word for ax about 1607.

Both Indians and white-men carried tomahawks on the frontier. They were used as weapons and for light work by hunters, trappers and fighting men.

There was great variety in the types and patterns of tomahawks popular among the Indians. Some blacksmiths, who were skilled artisans at working metal, earned a considerable reputation for the finely made and well proportioned tomahawks they forged.

In the account books of John Johnston, Indian agent at Ft. Wayne, Ind., 1804-1811, pipe tomahawks were listed at $1.50 each and plain tomahawks at 67 cents each.

Ely starts with a rough casting when making a tomahawk. He spends an average of 100 hours filing, fitting and polishing the head. The hafts or handles are drilled with a special 18-inch drill with 12 straight flutes. The horizontal drilling rig operates at a slow speed and the haft is fed into the drill slowly to obtain a straight hole. Drilling time is 1½ to 2 hours. The haft is then fitted with a deer antler mouthpiece.

A steel cutting edge is dovetailed into the brass tomahawks, just as was done with many of the originals. A brass tomahawk made by Ely and on display at the museum has a haft made from a section of the famous Logan Elm.

The iron or steel tomahawks have a heart shaped brass inlay hand fitted to a drilled and filed perforation in the blade. The brass inlay is pressed into place in a vise and then filed flush with the surface of the blade.

Most of the 54 tomahawks Ely has made have selected curly maple hafts. Five have wood from the Logan Elm.

The flintlock pistol on display represents a type made in small numbers by American riflemakers in the 1770-1820 period and are known to present day collectors as Kentucky pistols.

They were carried by some militia men, officers and frontiersmen along with tomahawks as supplementary weapons to rifles and muskets.

OU-L Offers Graduate Engineering, Guidance

Four graduate courses, two in school guidance and two in Industrial and Systems Engineering, will be offered at the Lancaster Campus of Ohio University during the coming fall term.

Registration for the graduate courses, as well as other course offerings, will be held Sept. 12 and 13.

The Elementary School Guidance course, being offered from 7 to 10:20 p.m. Mondays, is for persons who are working towards their master's degree in elementary school counseling but may also be taken by those seeking a master's degree in elementary teaching, elementary administration and curriculum and supervision.

Topics to be covered are the rationale, scope and nature of elementary school guidance; multiple approaches to provision of guidance services in elementary school with emphasis on the role of elementary school counselors.

Foundations of Guidance, also offered Mondays from 7 to 10:20 p.m., will cover the philosophy and principles underlying guidance, need for guidance in schools and considerations of major guidance services.

The two engineering courses will fulfill requirements for the master's degree in Industrial and Systems Engineering. All the courses needed to complete this program will be offered over the next several years at the Lancaster campus.

Creativity in Engineering Problem Solving for three credit hours will be offered from 6:30 until 9 p.m. on Fridays and cover such topics as behavior systems analysis used to generate an analytic-descriptive approach to creative performance applied to industrial and systems engineering problems.

The second course, Seminar on Occupational Safety and Health, scheduled for Wednesdays from 7 to 9 p.m., will cover occupational safety and health treated historically, outlining development of Workman's Compensation and industrial safety up to the most recent federal legislation, including the 1970 Safety and Health Act.

Focus will be given to specific health and safety problems with a view toward developing engineering and human factors controls.

Persons not working on a master's degree can take these courses for self-improvement or for their job.

Equipment Chief Supports Bengals

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Tom Gray thinks being a pest paid off for him. He has the job to prove it.

Twenty years ago he walked into the Cleveland Browns' training camp as a kid looking for something to do. The 38-year-old Cincinnati Bengals equipment manager has been tending to the needs of professional football players ever since.

"I always helped the Browns carry stuff up and down a hill before and after practice. I think they finally hired me because I was such a pest," laughs Gray.

The Ravenna native spent 14 years with the Browns before joining the Bengals six years ago when Cincinnati was awarded a pro football franchise.

Gray strives to keep one big happy—and healthy—family.

"I'm the guy that spends the most time with them. Marv Pollins, our trainer, takes care of their aches and pains. I try to make sure they don't get them."

Sometimes Gray has to find ways to make the walking wounded fit for battle.

"Essex Johnson, our leading ground gainer last year, played much of last year with two fractured jaws. Nobody knew about it except a few of us. We fixed him up with a special air cell helmet, put rubber donuts in his helmet and made a jaw pad. He said it worked," said Gray.

But even the most sophisticated equipment is sometimes substituted for something that "feels right," he says.

"I've had guys who would wear a shoestring instead of a belt for the lightness. Football players are very conscious of what they wear. If it slows

Honeycane Wins Scioto Feature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Honeycane won the Ohio Firestake Preview featured ninth race at Scioto Downs Thursday night pacing the mile in 2:01 to win by one length.

The winner of the $4,000 purse for 3-year-olds paid $3, $2.80 and $2.80. Absolum placed for $6.60 and $4.60. Napa showed for $9.60.

The 3-6 nightly double combination of Bill Q. and Peter Main paid $123.80. In the 10th race quinella, the 4-9 combination returned $119.40.

A crowd of 4,850 wagered $264,209.

Since 1950, the Metropolitan Handicap has been won three times by three-year-olds. Greek Ship, trained by Preston Burch, won in 1950.

them down a step, they won't wear it."

Gray's in charge of the gridiron gladiators' wardrobe and it can be an inventory man's nightmare.

To fully fit a football player, the following items are necessary: helmet with facemask, $35; shoulder pads, $40-$50; thigh pads, $5; knee pads, $3; shoes, $25; game hose $6; jersey, $25 and pants, $40.

"We go through about $750 a year in chin straps. And we figure we'll need about 30 dozen footballs at about $20 each for one season," says Gray.

Lee Elder To Enter Kings Island Open

KINGS MILLS, Ohio (AP) — Lee Elder, in the midst of his best year on the Professional Golfers' Association tour, has announced he will play in the $125,000 Ohio Kings Island Open Oct. 4-7.

The 39-year-old veteran from Washington D. C. will be aiming for his first big tour title and an invitation to become the first black player to compete in the Masters Tournament.

Elder, who has won more than $70,000 in 1973, is one of the first to enter the first year event carrying a first prize of $25,000.

Cubs Trip Reds In 10; Win 4-3

CHICAGO (AP)—Don Kessinger's 10th inning single drove home Randy Hundley from third base, giving the Chicago Cubs a 4-3 victory over the Cincinnati Reds Thursday afternoon.

A single by Paul Popovich, following a two-base throwing error by Clay Carroll on Ron Santo's grounder, enabled Chicago to tie the game 3-3 after the Reds had gone on front in their half of the 10th on another wild throw by Billy Williams.

Matt Alexander, who ran for Santo, was sacrificed to third and scored on Popovich's hit. Popovich went to second on a single by Hundley but was thrown out at the plate when he tried to score on a single by Jim Hickman. Hundley moved to third on the play and scored on Kessinger's hit.

Williams' error in the top of the 10th allowed Darrel Chaney to score all the way from second base, giving the Reds a 3-2 lead. Chaney, who had doubled, came around to score as Williams fielded Pete Rose's grounder and threw wild to first. Rose went to second on the play.

The Reds had tied the game 2-2 in the eighth on a wild pitch by Chicago reliever Bob Locker, allowing Chaney, running for Hal King, to score from third.

Randy Hundley's squeeze bunt had put the Cubs in front 2-1 in the fifth inning. The two teams exchanged solo homers in the second inning, Andy Kosco hitting one for the Reds and Santo retaliating for Chicago.

Locker, who picked up his sixth victory in 11 decisions, took over from Cub starter Bill Bonham in the eighth after Bonham had allowed just four hits and struck out nine batters. It was Bonham who ended the Cubs' 11-game losing streak last Friday with a 5-1 decision over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Bonham's only lapses of control came against Joe Morgan, who got all three walks he issued. Morgan, however, was stranded on second in the first inning, was caught stealing in the third and was picked off first by Bonham in the sixth.

Bonham held the Reds hitless from the second until the eighth when he was chased by successive one-out singles by pinchhitters King and Bobby Tolan in the eighth.

That brought in Locker, who got Rose to ground into a force play, Chaney taking third. Locker then took any decision away from Bonham with his wild pitch to Morgan, scoring Chaney for a 2-2 tie.

Grimsley also failed to become a pitcher of record when he was lifted for pinch-hitter Tolan in the eighth after yielding only three hits. Pedro Borbon took over, going out for a pinch-hitter in the top of the 10th and giving way to Carroll, 5-7. Tom Hall yielded Kessinger's game-winning blow.

Cowboys Look Like Playoff Team

DALLAS (AP) — Retirements and off-season unrest shook the Dallas Cowboys like an earthquake, but there's every evidence unflappable Coach Tom Landry will have all the pieces in place for an unprecedented eighth consecutive trip to the National Football League playoffs.

The Cowboys lost a staggering 65 years in NFL experience with the exit of seven key players off the Super Bowl VI champions—tight end Mike Ditka, linebacker Chuck Howley, defensive end George Andrie, running back Dan Reeves, receiver Lance Alworth, defensive back Herb Adderley and center Dave Manders.

The Cowboys also led the league in threatened retirements with defensive tackle Bob Lilly, quarterback Craig Morton, linebacker Lee Roy Jordan and others unhappy for one reason or another in hassles with Dallas management.

Yet out of this storm of discontent, Lilly said he had found a "new spirit" on the team— "something we didn't have last year."

To prove he was right, the Cowboys went out and destroyed Los Angeles 24-7 in the exhibition opener to show there was still some fire in the boiler.

Despite the retirements, the Cowboys still have talent that has many an NFL front office drooling.

Quarterbacks Roger Staubach and Morton, who are again fighting for the No. 1 job, are among the tops in the league. Fullback Walt Garrison and 1,000-yard rusher Calvin Hill are proven ground-gainers. The offensive line, behind all-pros Rayfield Wright and John Niland, is among the finest.

If the Cowboys have an offensive weakness, it might be at receiver—but don't count on it. Bob Hayes caught only 15 passes last year but could be in the best shape of his career because of extensive work in professional track during the off-season.

Otto Stowe, Paul Warfield's backup man at Miami, was obtained in a trade for Ron Sellers and has been nothing short of eye-popping in the early going.

The No. 1 draft pick, tight end Billy Joe Dupree of Michigan State, also hasn't disappointed.

On defense, Lilly says he is healthy. When the giant tackle says that, it can be a long autumn for opposing quarterbacks. Lilly was plagued by injuries during the 10-4 Cowboy season last year and the pass rush suffered.

Jethro Pugh is the other Cowboy defensive tackle, with Bill Gregory pushing defensive ends Pat Toomay and Larry Cole hard.

At linebacker, five-year veteran D.D. Lewis appears ready to step into Howley's shoes. There's a sneaking hunch that Landry can always get Howley to "unretire" from his dry cleaning business should Lewis fail to produce. Veterans Lee Roy Jordan and Dave Edwards fill out the linebacking trio.

Dallas is solid in the secondary. Mel Renfro and fast-improving Charlie Waters protect the corners while alert Cliff Harris and veteran Cornell Green hold down the safeties.

Vikings Resume Hunt For No. 1 Quarterback

By HOWARD SMITH
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Minnesota Vikings resume their search for a No. 1 quarterback Saturday at Berkeley, Calif. against the Oakland Raiders in a battle of unbeaten National Football League clubs.

Francis Tarkenton, the incumbent, and Bob Berry, the challenger, have been fighting it out for the right to lead the Purple Gang this season. Statistically it looks like a draw so far.

Tarkenton has completed 18 of 28 passes for 169 yards in Minnesota's two victories while Berry has hit on 19 of 26 tosses for 224 yards. Tarkenton came to the rescue in last week's 13-10 win over Kansas City, rallying the Vikes in the fourth quarter with a 70-yard touchdown drive capped by a 19-yard pass to John Gilliam to tie the score.

Fred Cox's 20-yard field goal with just over one minute to play won it for Minnesota.

Tarkenton will probably start against the Raiders who have their own quarterbacking follies going. Daryle Lamonica made a brief appearance against Los Angeles last week, completing three of four passes, including a six-yard scoring aerial to Bob Moore.

Lamonica then retired while Ken

Stabler and Don Milan split the duties behind center in the Raiders' 16-3 win. George Blanda, now 45, doesn't do much quarterbacking these days but he still kicks field goals and connected from 36,17 and 41 yards against the Rams.

This will be the first meeting ever between Minnesota and Oakland, and will serve as a preview of their season-opening battle Sept. 16.

The Houston Oilers nipped the Dallas Cowboys 27-24 in the battle of Texas Thursday night.

Cincinnati plays at Detroit and Los Angeles visits Miami in games tonight.

Saturday night Baltimore is at Washington, Atlanta faces Cleveland in Knoxville, Tenn., New England visits New Orleans, San Diego entertains Philadelphia and the New York Jets are in St. Louis. Sunday afternoon Chicago is at Buffalo, Denver at San Francisco and Pittsburgh at the New York Giants.

The weekend schedule ends Sunday night when Green Bay visits Kansas City.

Unknowns Shine In Trapshoot

VANDALIA, Ohio (AP) — The tradition that the unknowns win the big handicaps during Grand American Trapshooting tournaments was a reality Thursday in the Preliminary Handicap at the Amateur Trapshooting association grounds here.

There is no reason to believe that tradition will not carry over into today's Grand American Handicap. In 73 years of the Grand American there have been 73 champions, most of them unknowns until they hit the big jackpot.

In the preliminary, the new champion was Hallie Wintersteen, a 46-year-old operating engineer from Mentor, Ohio.

He had 99 of 100 targets to tie for the crown with Jeff L. Shelton of Buffalo, N. Y.

Both Wintersteen and Shelton were competing in a Grand tournament for the first time. In fact, Wintersteen started to shoot only a year ago.

The two shooters showed their nervousness when they met for the shootoff. Wintersteen won it by breaking 24 of 25 targets while Shelton dropped three for a 22.

2 Bids Are Made To Buy Race Track

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Multi-million dollar bids from two parties have been made for purchase of River Downs race track, the Cincinnati Enquirer reported Thursday.

Bids of $7 million from an eastern group and a $5.5 offer from a Cincinnati-Dayton group have been made in recent months, according to The Enquirer.

3-Way Tie Marks Action In L&M Open

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Dave Eichelberger and Dave Stockton are enthusiastically looking for a spot in the U.S. Professional Match Play Championship, and Buddy Allin will take one if it comes along.

"Sure I want in the Match Play—the way I'm playing now I can handle 'em," said the slump-ridden Eichelberger after he tied Stockton and Allin Thursday for the first round lead in the $100,000 L&M Open Golf Tournament. All had 67s.

"I'd like to get in it," said Stockton, a former PGA national champion and the current Milwaukee Open titleholder. "I had to qualify last year and won one match. I'd like another crack at it."

"I haven't really thought that much about it," said the skinny, freckle-faced, red-haired Allin. "If I get in fine, great. But it's not do or die. If I look forward to it and don't make it, then there's a let-down."

Those three had four-under-par efforts on 6,786 yard MacGregor Downs Country Club course and stamped themselves as prime choices to move into the featured half of pro golf's only doubleheader this weekend.

That's the $150,000 U.S. Professional Match Play championship which will be played Saturday and Sunday on the same MacGregor Downs course.

Eight players—including such big guns as Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino and Tom Weiskopf—are exempt. The other eight players in the Match Play will be the top eight after 36 holes of the L&M.

While Stockton, Allin and Eichelberger are the top contenders, they're far from secure. Five others were just one stroke back at 68 after the first round of the L&M, and there were five more at 69.

Two of the prime favorites—Lanny Wadkins and Texan Ben Crenshaw—ran afoul of the troublesome, water-guarded 18th hole and were well back.

Anderson To Guide Bengals Against Lions

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP)—Quarterback Ken Anderson, nearly flawless in his last outing, will try to correct the Cincinnati Bengals offensive problems tonight when the team faces the Detroit Lions.

Anderson, who directed the Bengals to a 24-0 halftime lead with an 11-for-12 passing show in a 45-21 victory over Philadelphia two weeks ago, returns to the lineup after missing last week's 24-6 loss to Cleveland.

It was the first game this season that Cincinnati failed to score a touchdown.

Robinson, Phils Top Padres

By EARL GERHEIM
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bill Robinson, his rocky major league career once a source of frustration and worry, has finally discovered the formula for hitting homers.

"It's just a case of relaxing and making contact with the ball," the Philadelphia Phillies player explains.

He relaxed at the plate Thursday night and drove in three runs with two homers, propelling the Phillies to a 6-3 National League baseball triumph over the San Diego Padres.

In other NL games during Thursday's light schedule, Los Angeles trimmed the New York Mets 5-4 and the Chicago Cubs beat the Cincinnati Reds 4-3. In the only American League contest, California downed Milwaukee 6-3.

Robinson was touted as a new super-slugger when he first joined the New York Yankees in 1967. He never lived up to the advance fanfare, batting a dismal .196. He lasted two more seasons in New York, then made the circuit of minor league teams and almost quit after failing to make the Chicago White Sox two years ago.

"Then I just decided to go out and have some fun," Robinson recalled about that depressing stage of his career. "If I had a bad game I didn't worry about it."

However, his new-found philosophy appeared faulty after he managed only four hits in 32 times at bat during a recent road trip.

"I thought, why me?" he said. "After I finally made it, I thought I was going to blow it. But I sat down and had a long talk with myself."

Robinson's first blast, a two-run shot, capped a four-run Phils first and then followed Greg Luzinski's homer with a solo homer in the sixth.

Cubs 4, Reds 3
Don Kessinger drove home the winning run with a 10th-inning single. The Cubs tied the game 3-3 after the Reds had pulled ahead in their half of the 10th.

"I just tried to find a hole because it meant the ball game," Kessinger said his winning hit that scored Randy Hundley from third. "Any kind of a base hit would have won it."

Dodgers 5, Mets 4

Joe Ferguson laced a runscoring double in the sixth inning, breaking a tie and lifting the Dodgers to a victory that increased their lead in the NL West to three games over Cincinnati.

Angels 6, Brewers 3
Brewer relief pitcher Chris Short issued a bases-loaded walk to Sandy Alomar, forcing in the winning during a five-run Angel seventh inning. The winning run came after Short, who replaced starter Billy Champion who was forced out after breaking a finger nail on his pitching hand, permitted the winning run to score after hitting Winston Llenas with a pitch.

Indiana Gas Dealers Plan Closings As Protest

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Phase 4 regulations will not allow service stations to charge enough to make a profit on gasoline, according to several hundred Central Indiana dealers who plan to close in protest this weekend.

Motorists lined up Thursday in anticipation of the three-day shutdown beginning today, and Standard and Marathon Oil officials said almost all their Indianapolis-area dealerships will be closed through Sunday.

A spokesman for Standard said the firm has 118 outlets in Marion County and most will be closed. A Marathon spokesman said most of its 180 stations in the Indianapolis area will be closed. Marathon stations at Terre Haute, Bloomington, New Castle, Richmond, Anderson and Muncie also will be affected he said.

Hugh Orr, public relations director for the Hoosier Motor Club, said a survey taken Thursday showed 38 of the 53 station operators questioned in Indianapolis, Anderson, Muncie and Terre Haute will close for the three days.

He said dealers at Columbus indicated they might join the protest, but it appeared most stations at Lafayette, Kokomo, Crawfordsville, Clarksville and Richmond would remain open.

Stations in other states are planning to shut down during the Labor Day weekend. Central Indiana dealers have said their actions on Labor Day would depend on the results of this weekend's protest.

More than 300 Indianapolis dealers voted on Wednesday to close this weekend. Another 160 dealers voted to shut down in the Anderson, Muncie and New Castle areas.

Sow Pregnancy Analyzer Sorts Out Freeloaders

WASHINGTON (AP) — High feed costs could mean a boom for a new electronic device that tells a hog producer quickly whether a sow is pregnant or a freeloader.

The Agriculture Department says many "ultrasonic pregnancy analyzers" are in use now. According to the Agricultural Research Service, the device can tell if a sow is pregnant as early as 30 days after conception.

"Caring for sows that are thought to be pregnant but in fact are not is costly to producers in feed, labor and investment in facilities and equipment," says a report in the September issue of Agricultural Research.

Even under the best conditions, 20 per cent of all gilts (young females) fail to conceive the first time they are bred, and eight to 10 per cent are permanently sterile.

The pregnancy detector includes a six-pound analyzer with a cathode ray screen. A typical commercial price is $1,200 per unit, the report said.

It suggested that several small producers could share an analyzer or prevail upon a veterinarian to buy the equipment and charge producers a use fee.

The technique of ultrasonic testing for animal pregnancy was developed by Dr. Ivan L. Lindahl, an ARS nutritionist at the agency's research center in Beltsville, Md. The adaption used for testing swine was developed cooperatively by ARS and the University of Illinois.

Lindahl's work resulted first in a similar instrument used for pregnancy testing of sheep. However it was not suited for swine, the ARS report said.

The basic technique involves the placement of a probe tip on the lower flank of a sow. Sound is bounced off the fluid surrounding the fetuses in the uterus of a pregnant sow and registered as blips on the right side of the cathode ray screen.

If the animal is not pregnant, the blips register on the left side of the screen.

Nicklaus, Weiskopf Eye PGA Honors

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Professional Golfers Association Player of the Year honors could be at stake this weekend if—as expected—Jack Nicklaus and Tom Weiskopf meet in the finals of the U.S. Professional Match Play Championship.

They appear to be running neck and neck for the honor Nicklaus won last year. A head-to-head match in the finals Sunday afternoon could make the choice easy for the PGA committee that makes the selection.

The Match Play, carrying $150,000 in total prizes with $40,000 to the winner, begins Saturday as the featured half of pro golf's only doubleheader with the $100,000 stroke play L&M Open.

Two rounds of match play will be held daily on the 6,786-yard, par-71 MacGregor Downs Country Club course with Nicklaus the defending champion and No. 1 seed in the field of 16.

The other seeded players, in order, are Johnny Miller, Tommy Aaron, Weiskopf, Lee Trevino, George Archer, Grier Jones and Jerry Heard. The other eight players will come out of the L&M.

Weiskopf's sudden emergence was the big news this summer and shoved Nicklaus out of the headlines. In an eight-event string he won five times, including the British and Canadian Opens. For the year, he's collected $228,088.

PUCO Asks Public Ideas On Amtrak

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio asked for public response Thursday concerning the maintenance of rail service to Columbus and Dayton.

The commission asked Amtrak passengers to forward their comments to the utility regulating agency's offices by Sept. 14. PUCO is attempting to determine if the public is interested in the service being continued.

The Interstate Commerce Commission scheduled a public hearing for Sept. 14 on its proposal to discontinue rail service to the two cities.

Brian Duff, Amtrak's news director, told the Columbus Dispatch that no money was provided by Congress to operate the National Limited which runs between New York and Kansas City.

Duff said the decision to eliminate the National Limited and the Floridian lines was based on a U.S. Department of Transportation study which showed both suffering severe financial problems.

He said that ridership on the two lines increased, contrary to the report's projections.

The victory paid $52.20, $17.80 and $6.60. The winner was timed in 1:06 for the 5½ furlongs.

1040 U.S. Individual Income Tax Return Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

(Q) What's the difference between a regular IRS audit and your "unallowable items" program?

(A) Under the IRS "Unallowable Items Audit Program," certain errors on Federal income tax returns are identified and corrected during return processing at IRS Service Centers. The items corrected are the ones that are clearly not deductible and are unallowable by statute, such as dividend exclusions in excess of the amount allowed by law or failure to reduce medical expenses by one and three percent of adjusted gross income. A regular audit involves an examination of the taxpayer's books or records, while the correction of an unallowable item is simply a step in the processing of returns.

However, a taxpayer who is contacted by an IRS Service Center concerning an unallowable item has the same appeal rights available to him as under other audit procedures.

(Q) My son is a full-time student and is earning a lot of money from his summer job. If he earns more money than I spend for his support, will I lose his dependency exemption?

(A) The "support" test of the dependency rules is not keyed to how much your dependent earns or how much income he has, but to how much he spends on support items. For example, if your son banked his earnings instead of spending them on support items, they would not count towards his support. Likewise, if your son spent his earnings on a non support item, such as a car, that amount would not count towards his support.

These considerations and others are explained in IRS Publication 501, "Your Exemptions for Dependents." Your son can plan his finances so that you will not lose his dependency exemption. The booklet is available by mail from your Internal Revenue district office at no charge.

(Q) I subscribe to a daily financial newspaper to keep an eye on my investments in the stock market. Is the cost of the subscription deductible?

(A) Yes, such fees are deductible as income-producing expenses on your return if you itemize.

Mine Workers Hold Convention

LOGAN, W.Va. (AP) — Exercising an unfamiliar freedom, United Mine Workers District 17 members gathered here today for their first constitutional convention.

The district was overseen by appointed officials until this year, and has its first elected officials in decades.

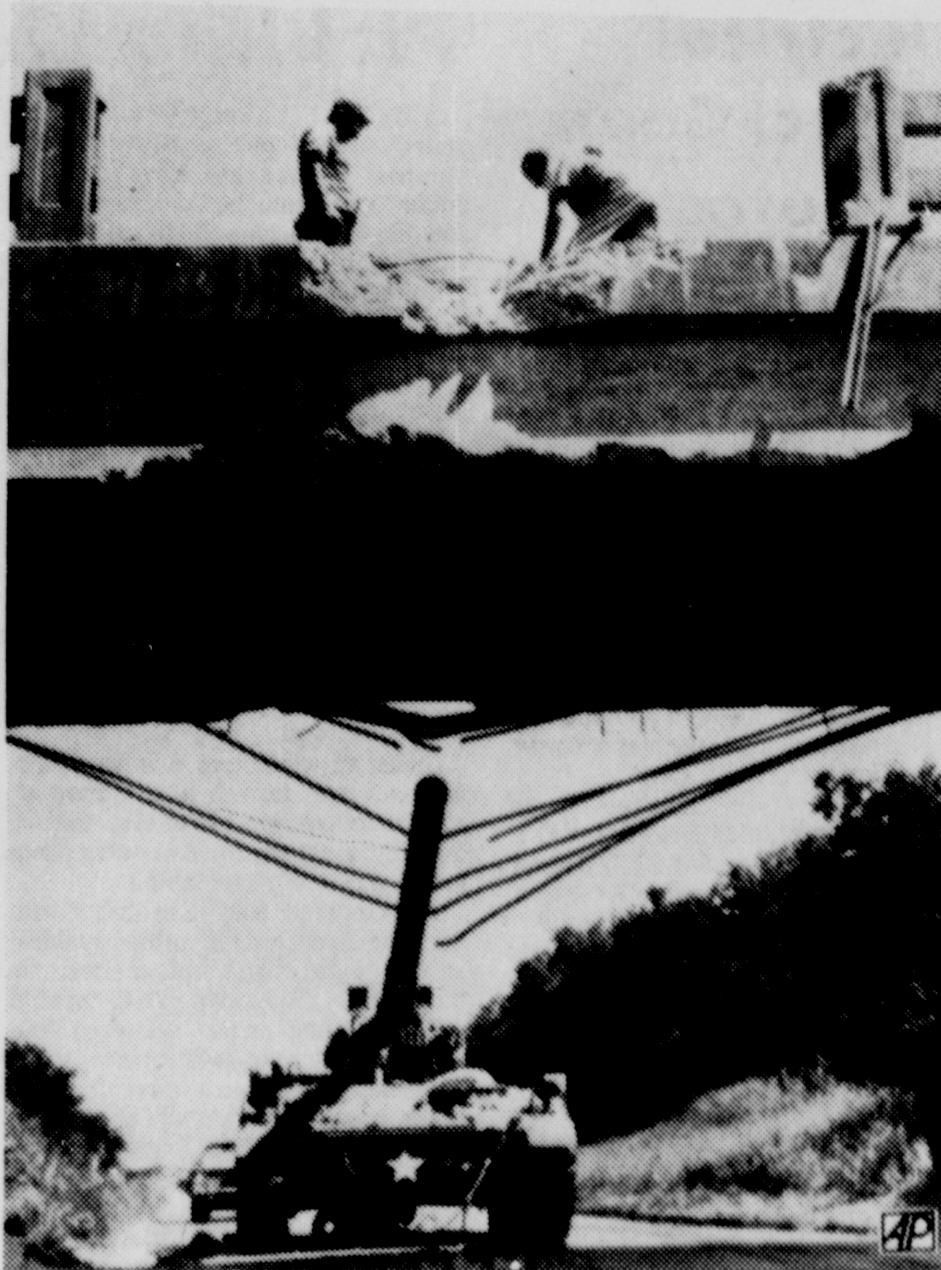

New district president Jack Perry Thursday declined to comment on provisions he would like included in the constitution, saying he feared members "might feel I am dictating to them."

He similarly refused any statement on a possible power struggle between the faction which supported him and the faction which stood behind former appointed district president Joe Ellis, the man Perry defeated in court-ordered balloting.

The Tassili rock paintings in southwest Algeria, which date from about 5000 B.C., portray an organized society of hunters and herders who had horses and cattle.

FEMALE FIRST — Mrs. Yvonne Cabell, 23, and mother of two, has become the first woman corrections officer at an all-male prison in New Jersey. Mrs. Cabell, whose husband is also a corrections officer at the Trenton institution, said this would permit her more time with her husband.

GUNNED DOWN—This old overpass on Highway 69 at Whitewright, Texas, was wrecked when a Ft. Sill, Okla., 175 mm howitzer rammed its long barrel through the 12-inch concrete floor. The 30-ton gun was being hauled on a low-boy trailer to Ft. Benning, Ga., with its barrel slightly elevated as a safety precaution for rear-end traffic, but not accounting for the lower clearance of the Whitewright bridge.

Hope To Iron Out Differences On New Ethics Legislation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The chairman of the joint Ohio House-Senate conference committee working on a compromise of ethics legislation is optimistic that the committee will iron out differences.

State Rep. Patrick A. Sweeney, D-6 Cleveland, said after a committee meeting Thursday that he expects a compromise.

Another conference was scheduled Monday in an attempt to resolve differences before the next meeting of the 110th Ohio General Assembly.

"I think there is a good chance of resolving the differences," said Sen. Paul E. Gillmer, R-2 Port Clinton, a committee member.

The major difference between the two body's proposals apply to local government officials. The Senate measure exempts township trustees, school board members and village, city and county board members and

Westfall Free, Reduced Lunch Program Announced

Westfall Board of Education is offering lunches free and at a reduced price for students of the district who are unable to pay the full price of meals served in schools under the National School Lunch Program.

Families of five whose income is $6,100 or less qualify for free lunches under the Westfall program. A family of similar size whose income is $7,320 may qualify for a reduction in cost for cafeteria meals.

Westfall school officials have adopted a family-size, income scale for use in determining eligibility. These will be available to parents at the local principals' offices and will be sent home with children at the beginning of the school year.

Children from families whose income is at or below that shown on the scale are eligible for meals free or at reduced prices. In addition, families not meeting this criteria, but with other unusual expenses due to unusually high medical expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30 per cent of income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, and disaster or casualty losses may apply also.

They may do so by filling in the application forms sent home with a letter to parents. The information provided on the application will be confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility.

Applications may be submitted anytime during the school year.

In certain cases, foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If parents have such children living with them and wish to apply for such meals, they should contact the school.

In the operation of the child feeding program, Westfall officials maintain that no child will be discriminated

Tape Player Stolen At Berger Hospital

A tape player was taken from the auto of Dorothy Vandagriff, 41, Laurelville, while parked in the front lot of Berger Hospital Thursday night.

According to the report of Circleville police Sgt. Jerry Smallwood, Mrs. Vandagriff told police that her car was parked in the front parking lot at 2:50 p.m. and when she returned to the car at 11:30 p.m. her tape player was missing from under the dash.

Sgt. Smallwood also reported that whoever took the tape player did not touch the tapes kept in the car. The tape player was valued at $40.

Electrical Defect Seen In Autos

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration says the threat of electrical failure exists in some Chrysler Corp. cars manufactured from 1969 through 1973.

The federal agency issued a consumer protection bulletin Wednesday, saying the threat of electrical failure exists in Chrysler Newports, New Yorkers, and Town and Country 300's; Dodge Monacos and Polaras; and Plymouth Fury and Suburban models.

The agency said an electrical failure could result in the engine stopping, the loss of headlights and the loss of power assist for brakes and steering.

The agency said it had received at least 338 reports of failures so far. One person reportedly was killed and another seriously injured as a result of the failures, the agency said.

The problem, the agency said, is in an electrical connector hidden in the left rear corner of the firewall. Misalignment or faulty connections in the connector can cause the car power to go off.

The agency urged all owners of the models being investigated to report failures in the electrical system immediately and to have their cars checked by competent mechanics. It said two Chrysler Corp. service bulletins, 08-16A-72D and 08-22A-72C, describe the inspection procedure to verify the condition of the connectors.

The agency said failures should be reported to the Office of Consumer Affairs, NHTSA, 400 7th Street, S.W., Washington, D.C.

Mortgage Money Hard To Obtain

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Home mortgage funds are getting harder to obtain in Cleveland, the Plain Dealer said today.

It said that although officials of savings and loan associations would say only "we have curtailed loan applications," the trend appears to be that funds are generally not available for mortgages on old houses and are being curbed for new ones.

The Plain Dealer said new home mortgages are available when the savings institution shared in the cost of construction or for its depositors or for other unspecified purposes.

Federal government policies are blamed by many savings officials for the cutback in mortgage lending. Increasing interest rates, including those paid by the institutions themselves, have reduced the flow of funds.

Elks Association Meet Gets Under Way

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The 44th annual fall meeting of the Ohio Elks Association is underway here today with registration of delegates and planning sessions for Elk-sponsored charity programs.

An estimated 900 representatives of 98 Ohio Elk lodges are expected to attend the three-day affair at the Sheraton-Columbus Motor Hotel.

'Pickling Liquor' Treats Sewage

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Three years ago, Republic Steel Corp. stopped discharging its "pickling liquor" waste into the Cuyahoga River and began trucking it to controlled landfills in Lake County.

But beginning next week, the waste will be delivered to the Cleveland Regional Sewer Authority's three sewage treatment plants—to help take the phosphorus out of the sewage.

The sewer authority discovered earlier this summer that the pickling liquor, once written off as a pollutant, could actually be used in the sewage treatment process, authority Counsel Lucien Rego said.

After several months of testing to be certain the idea was feasible, the sewer authority approached Republic. And Republic spokesmen say they were overjoyed.

Under an agreement this week, the company will furnish a minimum of 600,000 gallons a month of the waste—actually spent hydrochloric acid used in one phase of steelmaking.

The company said it probably will deliver as much as a million gallons each month, "and we understand they'll take all we can get to them." The pickling liquor—delivered free by Republic trucks—will replace ferric chloride, the chemical currently used in the phosphorus-reducing process at a cost of up to $300,000 annually, Rego said.

The removal of the phosphorus from sewage is one of the prime steps in sewage treatment, since the phosphorus contributes to algae growth and speeds Lake Erie's aging. "We couldn't be happier," a Republic spokesman noted. "This helps them, and it certainly helps us. We've not only had to pay to put it in Lake County, but we've been paying a pretty substantial chunk of money to truck it around."

He said the firm had not known about the possibility the waste could be recycled into sewage treatment until the authority contacted the firm. But he said the idea would spread.

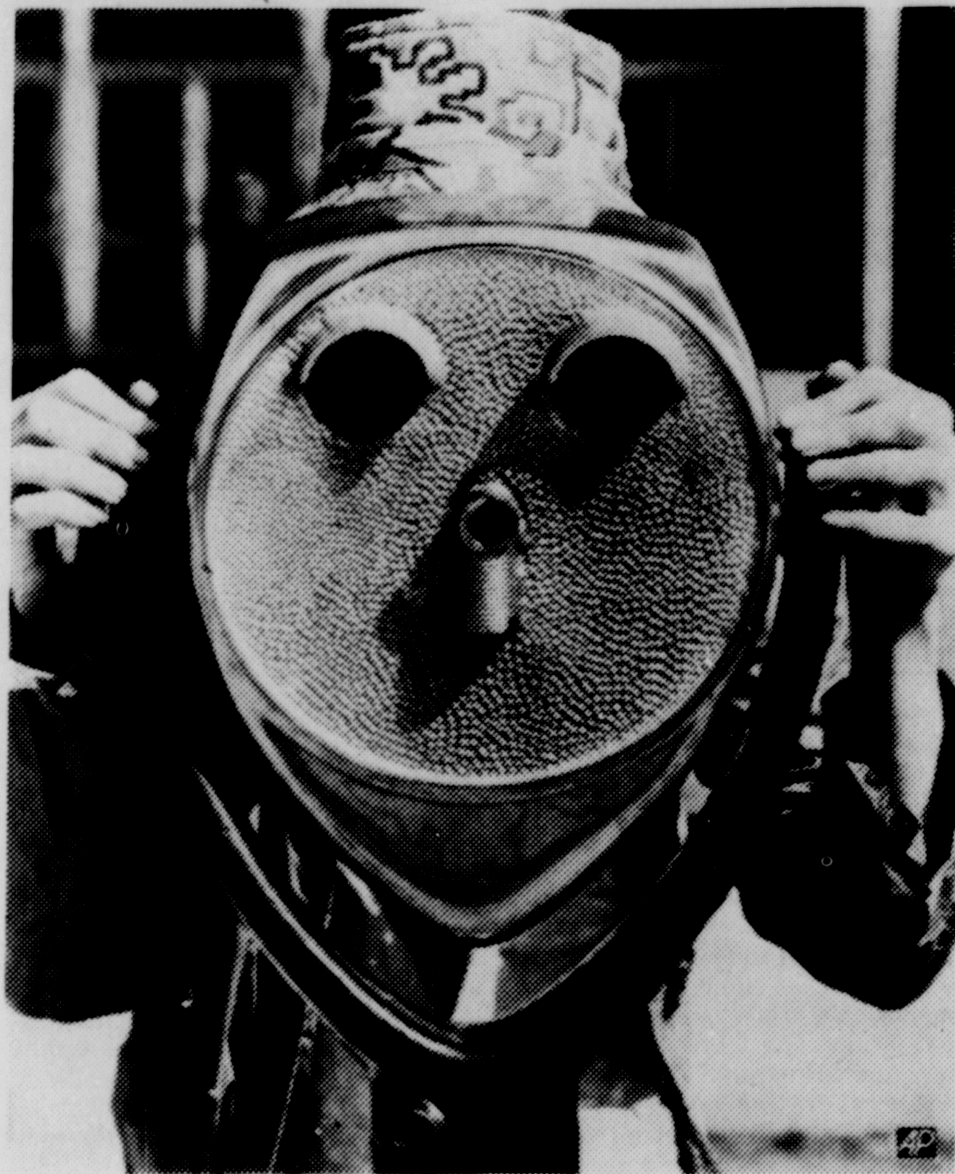

"This puts it to good use," he said. "More and more of this is going to happen across the country."

Ironically, Republic has been under attack by the state Environmental Protection Agency and the national Council on Economic Priorities for allegedly resisting air and water pollution controls.

Republic denied the charges, but the pickling waste publicity was a welcome publicity change, a representative of the firm admitted.

"It's nice to be on page one—with a positive story," he said.

Stevie Wonder Leaves Hospital

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Blind singer Stevie Wonder, who was injured in an auto crash two weeks ago, has been released from the hospital.

But a spokesman said the rock singer's appearance schedule has been canceled for several months.

Wonder, 23, suffered a brain bruise and extensive cuts more than two weeks ago in an auto accident in North Carolina while enroute to a concert in Durham.

Ira Tucker, the singer's personal aide, said there were no complications from the accident. Wonder left the hospital Thursday.

Jazzman Robbed; Some Loot Missed

NEW YORK (AP) — Jazzman Maynard Ferguson was robbed of $123 in a hotel pickup, but the robbers missed the $6,000 he had stashed in an attache case.

Two gunmen tied up the trumpet player and six other persons Thursday at the Croydon Hotel, police said. The robbers also broke into the hotel's safe deposit boxes and made off with about $100,000 worth of loot.

Correctional Center Concept Dies

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The experimental correctional center concept has been abandoned in Ohio. But hopes abound that the move is only temporary.

"In the future, when community attitudes change, the centers should become a reality again," said Ray Giannetta of the Adult Parole Authority, after the discontinuation

Bluegrass Stays Home

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Bluegrass, the skunk, had to sit out Beth Brewster's trip to Fresno, Calif., when a commercial airline refused to allow the animal in the passenger cabin.

Miss Brewster, 21, a senior at Ohio University in Athens, was told by airlines officials here it's against the rules to allow any animals, except domestic cats, dogs and birds in airplane cabins.

Miss Brewster protested that Bluegrass was de-scented and caged, but the best she could get was an offer to carry the skunk in the cargo compartment.

"I don't know why they won't let me keep her under my seat," Miss Brewster said later.

She said the noise in the cargo area might damage Bluegrass' ears. And besides, she said, the skunk is temperamental and sometimes stomps her foot.

Bluegrass was left behind with another student.

Discrimination Suit Filed

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The 12-year-old daughter of Cleveland lawyer John W. Hickey has asked U. S. District Court here to throw out the sexually discriminatory policies restricting girls to home economics and boys to industrial arts or shop classes. Women's Law Fund filed the class action Wednesday in behalf of Theresa Hickey against the Black River Board of Education and other officials of Black River local schools in Medina County.

Theresa says she wants to take shop because her 14-year-old brother Mark took it last year.

"In shop you can make a lot of things," she explained. "Mark made a pastry board for Mom for Mother's Day and he made knick-knack shelves and a tie rack for Father's Day."

"I couldn't even make a brush box for my horse brushes because I don't know how to put on the hinges or the handles."

"I can already bake cookies and pies really good."

was revealed Thursday.

The live-in center for prison furloughs never got off the ground in Cincinnati. Residents objected to the size of the facility. It was to accommodate 100 former inmates, providing counseling on jobs, marital problems, drugs and alcohol.

"The people were concerned about property values, and about the residents themselves," Giannetta said. Furloughs would have been allowed to leave the center to go to their jobs. They would have been required to return nightly.

Cincinnati City Councilman William Chenault asked the city Planning Commission last month to consider amending the zoning code so 20 furloughs could be housed at the Villa Hope.

"With the current correctional climate, prison riots and such, it makes it difficult to really sell community correction programs," Dembinski said.

The department decided to abandon the plan.

"With 20 residents, we couldn't operate with economic feasibility," Giannetta said.

"It would cost the state more to keep the men at the center than to institutionalize them," Assistant Corrections Director Joseph Dembinski said.

The state invested $300,000 in the project. Dembinski said he expected to recover 90 per cent of the money.

The 20 inmates scheduled to participate in the program will be processed through re-integration centers and half-way houses, on a smaller scale, Dembinski said.

"We'll continue to emphasize the re-integration of the inmate into the community," he said.

Meanwhile, Giannetta said he hoped the attitude of the public would change so that facilities like the correctional centers could be set up.

The idea was to work with larger groups of inmates with similar problems to return to the community, Dembinski said. It would have offered a chance to experiment with different types of treatment of a problem with the group-counseling approach, he said.

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) — Bowling Green authorities continued an investigation today into the explosion of a bomb at an old army recruiting station on the main street of the city Thursday.

Firemen were able to save the building from the fire which resulted from the blast.

Another explosion erupted at the recruiting center about three weeks ago. That incident is thought by officials to be the work of an anti-war group.

play's premiere last Monday with Katie Schneider, of Circleville, and Charlie Fine, of Chillicothe, in the starring roles of Annie and Buffalo Bill. Both coming performances are scheduled at 8:15 p.m. Tickets will be offered for sale at the amphitheatre ticket office on the evenings of the performances.

Westfall Hires Math Teacher; Needs One Teacher By Aug. 29

Westfall School District filled all of its teaching vacancies except one with the employment of a math teacher at its special meeting Thursday.

Betty Searcy, Thurber Drive, Columbus, was given a one year contract to replace Jeff Bigham who resigned his position as math teacher at the last board meeting. Mrs. Searcy has a B.S. degree in mathematics and chemistry from Moorehead State and a masters degree in education also from Moorehead. She has four years experience.

The high school Latin and English position stills remains open.

Extra duties were assigned to teachers at Thursday's meeting.

James James was given a supplement contract as junior high assistant football coach. Linda Bayes Diltz, hired at Monday's meeting as girl's physical education teacher, was given additional duties as advisor to the high school GAA.

Mrs. Kay Kinsel was hired additionally as junior high cheerleader advisor. The GAA advisor will receive an additional $285 and the junior high cheerleader advisor will receive $50 for supervising these activities.

Mrs. Clair Clark was employed as a part-time cook at Darby. Loretta Keller, Anna Adams, Betty Howell, Joanne Newton and Emma Sias were employed as substitute cooks. Substitute bus drivers hired were Clyde Neff, Alan Gabreil, James Kibby, Eugene Warnock and Lowell

Anderson.

Since the last board meeting, two more substitute teachers were added to the list. Glenna Anderson will be starting the school year as second grade teacher at Darby because the regular teacher will be arriving late. Helen Hyde will replace Mrs. Neff as fourth grade teacher at Monroe until Mrs. Neff's health permits her to return to her regular job.

The budget for 1974 allows for the purchase of four new buses. The board resolved to advertise for bids for four 66 passenger buses both with the state minimum of cubic inches in the motor which is 340 and the next larger size.

Verna Mowery was given a one-year contract as secretary. Her duties will be part-time, six and one half hours three days a week. Mrs. Mowery has been employed for the last two years in the present category.

The board examined estimates submitted by George Snyder and Son for roof repair at five buildings in the district and decided to have these buildings repaired according to the estimate sheets. These buildings were Monroe, Darby, the high school, the music building at Jackson and the newer building at Jackson. Purchase orders for the job will be separate.

Kindergarten fees were set at $3 flat rate and 8 cents per day for refreshments.

Lab fees for several high school classes were continued as they were last year. Art, biology, advanced biology and home economics fees will be $3 and vocational agriculture will be $5. Additional fees were set for junior high industrial arts and junior high home economics at $3 each.

Mrs. Lester VanHoose was granted an increase from $5 to $6 per student per day for transporting two students from Darby area to Neil Ave. School and the 3½ year-old daughter of Mrs. Alice Haddox to Alexander Graham Bell School.

Talks Resume In Phone Strike

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Negotiations were to resume today in the strike against the General Telephone Co. with predictions by a leader of the Communication Workers of America that the walkout would not end soon.

"We don't look for any immediate solution to it," said Martin Hughes, union vice president, about the more than five-week-old strike.

Some 2,800 employees walked off the job July 16 in a contract dispute. Hughes said the CWA would continue to push for a 10 per cent pay boost. The firm offered 7 per cent.

"We want a pay that compares with other utility workers in the state," Hughes said.

Bonds Remain High In Delaware Case

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP)—Municipal Court Judge Nino A. Sferrella on Thursday refused to reduce the $50,000 bonds of three leaders of a drug selling ring arrested last week.

A preliminary hearing was set for Aug. 29 for Leonard Treece, 29, a Delaware new car salesman, Frederick Hochstetter, 29, of Delaware and Lewis E. Louck, 45, of Gastonia, N.C.

The three are charged with illegal possession and sale of drugs. Louck and Hochstetter are also charged with carrying concealed weapons.

Twenty other persons were arrested during the raids and charged with drug related offenses.

WEST CENTRAL CENTRAL SOUTHWEST SOUTHEAST

Cloudy with a chance of showers early tonight. Becoming partly cloudy late tonight and Saturday. Low tonight in the lower 60s. High Saturday in upper 70s and lower 80s. The chance of rain 30 per cent tonight and 20 per cent Saturday.

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY

The conditions are associated with a weak trough in the upper atmosphere. There were overcast skies across the state Thursday night, keeping temperatures some 10 to 15 degrees higher than 24 hours previously. Some rain fell intermittently during the night, mainly in western sections, but amounts were generally light.

Temperatures during Friday afternoon will be in the upper 60s and 70s or about the same as Thursday. The showers are expected to end early Friday night, as a high pressure over the lower the lower Great Lakes builds and moves southeastward.

The weather forecasters say southerly winds on Saturday should bring warmer weather to Ohio as a low pressure develops in the plains states.

Rescue Crew May Reach Miners Today

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (AP) — Rescue workers hope to free a pair of copper miners today. The two have been trapped for a week by a tunnel collapse and fire 1,200 feet under the Arizona desert.

New cave-ins Thursday at the Hecla Mining Co. copper mine 35 miles south of here forced a delay in the rescue operation.

Project manager Jim Hunter said walls of the fire-weakened tunnel began collapsing. Rescue operations were halted temporarily while additional support timbers were installed.

Hunter had predicted the two men would be freed Thursday afternoon, but the wall collapse threw the timetable off.

Trapped early last Friday morning were David Deeder, 41, Casa Grande, and Terry Udall, 24, Ft. Collins, Colo. Rescue workers have maintained hope the men are still alive, although there has been no contact with them through the week. Air and water has been pumped to the area where the two are trapped.

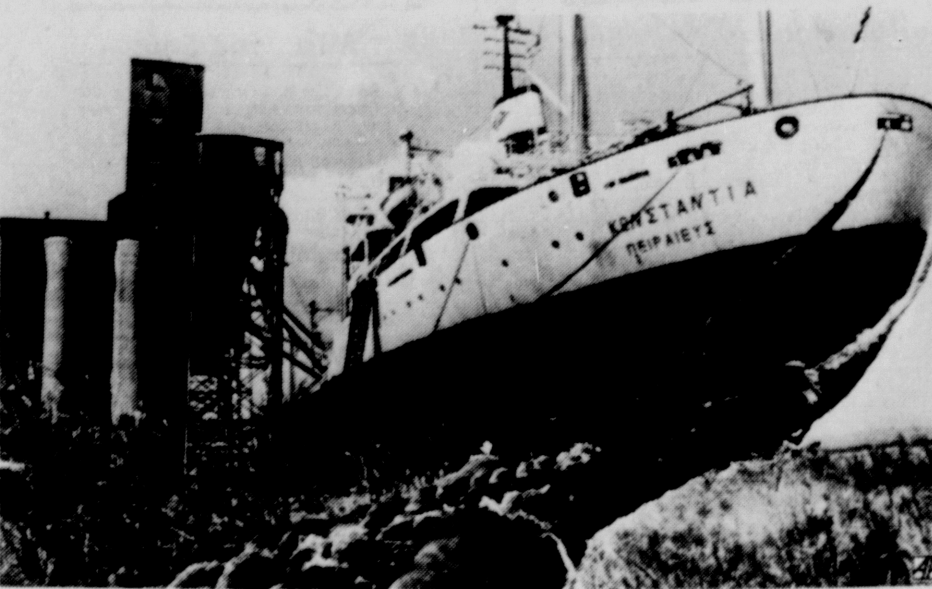

An Air Force helicopter was brought to the mine on the Papago Indian Reservation late Thursday to take the men to a hospital if necessary.

General Bradley Shows Progress

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gen. Omar N. Bradley, the nation's only five-star general, has been moved out of the intensive care unit of a hospital here.

A hospital spokesman said Bradley continued to show satisfactory progress Thursday.

Bradley, 80, was admitted to the hospital Aug. 13 to correct a blood clot problem caused by a football injury some 60 years ago.

Free Bus Service Starts In Dayton

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Free bus service is scheduled to start in downtown Dayton on Saturday as part of an experiment to boost inner city business and ease travel for elderly city dwellers.

Local transportation officials said they believed the no-fare service—to be known as DASH—is the first of its kind in the nation.

DASH, for Downtown Area Short Hope, will enable persons to travel free within the city's 96 block business district and the bordering suburb of Oakwood, said Robert Shaffer, resident manager of the Miami Valley Regional Transit Authority.

He said persons boarding the buses within DASH zones will be given DASH "boards" to separate them from travelers riding in from outside the business district. The boards will be deposited instead of fares when riders leave the bus, he said.

Only a small amount of revenue will be lost from the few riders who used to pay full fares to ride within the downtown area, and from transfers, Shaffer said.

On the other hand, he said, the program might help increase overall bus riding in the metropolitan area by introducing residents to the ease of bus travel versus parking and driving headaches.

Shaffer said transportation officials hit on the short hop idea after rejecting the use of shuttle buses in the downtown.

"We just figured they were too expensive and would only add to the congestion and the pollution," he said.

He predicted the service would primarily be used for lunch trips and after work shopping by downtown workers, and by the residents of the city's senior citizens' high rise apartment complex.

Later, he said, it might lead to a park-and-drive program for downtown workers.

Shaffer said the MVRTA is funded by a one-tenth mill levy and federal funds. It operates about 80 buses which make 1,400 scheduled trips into the downtown area every day

Claim Americans Actually Well Off

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration economists say most Americans are better off financially than they think they are, despite inflation.

Herbert Stein, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said Thursday the housewife may have "an exaggerated idea of the rate of inflation" because of what she

Wallace To Note 54th Birthday

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace won't lack for company Saturday as he celebrates his 54th birthday.

His supporters are throwing a huge open house party at Garrett Coliseum, complete with gospel and country music groups and plenty of free barbecue and watermelon.

The governor's cabinet and staff had a preliminary party Thursday and presented him with their gifts which included a gold ring, a camera and a remote-controlled television set built specially for Wallace, who is still paralyzed in both legs from a gunshot wound inflicted last year by a would-be assassin.

Dr. Kissinger Likes 'Excellency'

SAN CLEMENTE (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger, nominated by President Nixon to become the new secretary of state, was asked whether he should be called "Dr. Kissinger" or "Mr. Secretary."

With a twinkle in his eye, Kissinger told reporters on Thursday: "I don't stand on protocol. If you just call me Excellency that will be sufficient."

Brunswick Lad Killed

BRUNSWICK, Ohio (AP) — Michael O'Connor, 18, of Brunswick, was killed early today when the car he was driving collided with another on Ohio 303 west of Brunswick, Ohio Highway Patrol authorities reported.

sees in the supermarket.

"Inflation is a worldwide phenomenon and our position is relatively favorable," said John T. Dunlop, director of the Cost of Living Council.

Dunlop and Stein were emphasizing points that the administration has been trying to make for months. They are:

—Inflation is much more worse in most other major industrial countries than in the United States.

—Most Americans are beating inflation because their income is rising faster than prices.

Stein said real disposable income — income after taxes and taking inflation into account — has increased 5 per cent in the past year.

But Americans still think they're worse off, said Stein, and this has the administration worried.

"It is not good to have all of the people in the country unhappy," he told newsmen at a briefing.

One explanation Stein gave for what he termed this "important economic and social phenomenon" was that the increasing price of food gives an exaggerated idea of the rate of price increases overall.

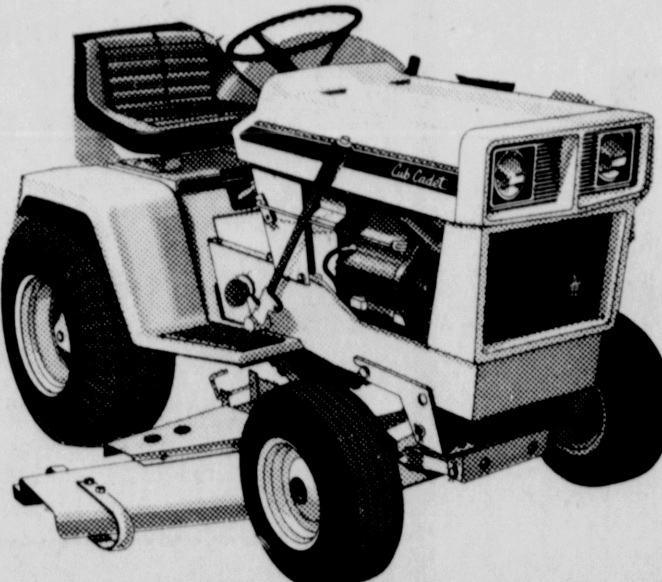

In addition, he said that although income and employment both have been increasing, "income increases are commonly regarded as barely sufficient to keep pace with the recipient's just deserts, whereas price increases tend to be regarded as extortions which make a person worse off than he ought to be."

Stein did note that the rate of increase of real incomes has slowed this year and that average real weekly take-home pay of non-farm workers has been lower, because of an increase in social security payroll taxes.

Both Stein and Dunlop again declined to make predictions on the rate of inflation in the months ahead, although Stein forecast it would be "substantially below" the 8 per cent inflation so far this year.

In an other economic development, the Cost of Living Council asked Atlantic Richfield Co. (ARCO) to send representatives to Washington Monday to explain a recent price increases for wholesale gasoline and home heating oil.
